Fritz Ebert, Son of President of German Republic Sees Widespread Unemployment, Their Looting and Finally Strife.

PREDICTS CIVIL WAR
Berlin, Aug. 25.—Fritz Ebert, Jr., son of President Ebert of the German Republic and the best posted man in Germany for reliable official information, declared today in an article written for the International News Service, that civil war will follow the present economic crisis in Germany. He predicted widespread unemployment, then looting and then war.

By FRITZ EBERT, JR.
Son of President Ebert of Germany
Berlin, August 25.—At the bottom of the present menacing situation is the fact that the world has lost confidence in Germany. It is an inexplicable phenomenon that a country, which has striven as earnestly and as honestly as Germany to fulfill its obligations has lost the trust of its creditors. The result has been a fresh fall in the value of the mark.

Washington, Aug. 25.—While congress wrestled around today with coal legislation, President Harding met again with his cabinet; at the White House to consider governmental policies in the railroad strike—the "key" to the whole chaotic industrial situation.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover took to the cabinet, meeting optimistic reports regarding production of essential bituminous coal. The major problem now is transportation of coal to those sections of the country where it is most needed, notably New England and the northwest.

London, Aug. 25.—Sensational and alarming reports that Eamonn De Valera, commander in chief of the Irish republican irregulars, has broken through the regulars' lines and appeared in County Louth, where he is believed to be planning an attempt to seize the free state were received from Belfast this morning.

Dublin, August 25.—While the body of Michael Collins rested in state in the city hall today, viewed by thousands and reports were received by the Free State ministry of defense of many victories over the irregulars along the western battle front.

The cabinet met, and considered reorganization of the government as well as the future policy to be pursued towards the rebels. The suggestion was urged that the irregulars be treated as murderers and outlaws, but, Richard Mulcahy, commander-in-chief of the Free State Army advocated a continuation of Collins' policy of leniency towards the rebels.

There is keen public interest as to the successors of Collins and Griffith. It is considered likely that their places will be permanently filled by Mulcahy and William T. Cosgrave, respectively soldier and civic student.

CONGRESS GALVANIZED INTO DECISIVE ACTION BY APPROACHING PERIL

Drastic Measures to Keep Country Supplied With Fuel
During Coming Cold Months Considered—Situation Rivals That of 1917 and 1918.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Stamped into decisive action by the rapidly increasing peril of a fuel famine this fall and winter, Congress dropped everything today for consideration of drastic measures to keep the country supplied with coal during the coming cold months and to prevent a recurrence of existing or impending coal shortages due to the anthracite and bituminous strikes.

The grave danger of intense suffering and sickness—even freezing among the people of those states where winter is most severe, dinned into the ears of senators, representatives alike by a torrent of telegrams, galvanized both senate and house into grappling with a situation which threatens to become even worse than that of the terrible winter of 1917-18.

Gone was the thought of the senate concentrating its attention upon the soldiers' bonus bill while the house did little or nothing until the tariff measure is out of conference and before it again. Senate debate turned from the bonus to the coal crisis and to the railroad strike.

WOMAN CRAZED WITH JEALOUSY SHOTS RIVAL

Mrs. Reva Fendrick Attacks Husband and Companion at Greenville
SHOTS GO WILD

Two Slightly Injured As
10,000 People See
Gun Play.

Dayton, O., Aug. 25.—Crazed with jealousy when she found her husband in company with Mildred Fourman, 28, of Muncie, Ind., Mrs. Reva Fendrick, 30, also of Muncie, shot her rival in the crowded amphitheatre of the Darke County Fairgrounds in full view of more than 10,000 persons, yesterday afternoon.

Sarah Baltzell, 15, of New Madison, was struck in the leg by a wild bullet which was intended for Frank Fendrick, the husband.

Fendrick disarmed his wife and held her until police arrived and placed her under arrest. She was released under $5,000 bail which she paid in cash from her purse.

In a statement to police after the shooting Mrs. Fendrick declared that Mrs. Fourman had stolen her husband's love and induced him to leave with her. The Fendricks are reported to be very wealthy. They have been separated for several months.

Mrs. Fendrick arrived in Greenville early yesterday morning, attired in a long blue cape. She wandered about the fairgrounds alone during the morning and early afternoon. About 2:30 o'clock she entered the amphitheatre and after surveying the grandstand climbed to where her husband was sitting in the sixth row with Mrs. Fourman. The Baltzell girl was seated next to Fendrick with her mother, Mrs. Fred Eyer.

Cautiously making her way to within a few feet of her husband, Mrs. Fendrick pulled a .25 calibre revolver from under her cape, and directed it at him. Fendrick knocked the weapon down, and the bullet struck the Baltzell girl in the leg.

Wresting the gun from her husband's hands, the crazed woman turned it on Mrs. Fourman, exclaiming bitterly, "You'll never have a chance to break up another home."

Again Fendrick struck the weapon and the ball plowed through both of Mrs. Fourman's legs above the knees. Fendrick then disarmed his wife and held her until police arrived. He was arrested with her, but was released later without bail.

Mrs. Fourman and the Baltzell girl were removed to a Greenville hospital where they were reported in good condition today.

SPECTACULAR BLAZE ILLUMINATES NEW YORK HARBOR AS SHIP BURNS

New York, Aug. 25.—There was a spectacular blaze that illuminated the whole harbor early today when fire broke out upon the Mallory line steamship Rio Grande in dry dock in the Anderson shipyard at the foot of eighteenth street, south Brooklyn.

The vessel was completely gutted, but the flames were prevented from spreading to other nearby ships.

The fire is believed to have originated in the hold where workmen were employed all day Thursday with acetylene torches.

The Rio Grande was over 60 years old and was constructed entirely of wood.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover took, to the cabinet, meeting optimistic reports regarding production of essential bituminous coal. The major problem now is transportation of coal to those sections of the country where it is most needed, notably New England and the northwest.

The railroads are facing a gigantic task in the movement of commodities of all descriptions. From every state in the union there is a cry for more coal; the west is beginning to clamor for cars in which to move its seasonal crops and as a result of the embargoes and priority rules established by the Interstate Commerce Commission, commodities of all descriptions have congested in warehouses awaiting shipment.

Car shortage is normal at this time of the year. It has been accentuated now by weeks of strike of railroad shopmen and impaired motive power has resulted in thousands of loaded cars being side tracked along the main lines because of scarcity of locomotives to handle them. Some coal experts, identified with the Federal Coal Commission, estimated today there were 30,000 cars of coal delayed in transit in the midwest.

To all appearances today, President Harding and his advisers were still looking hopefully toward New York where negotiations are in progress between the strike leaders and a growing number of railway executive over separate peace adjustments.

Chicago, August 25.—Warrants for upwards of forty additional leaders in alleged "Red" activities were in the hands of detectives today as the search for those who attended the "house in the woods" communist convention raided by government agents in the secluded Michigan woods, continued.

It was stated that several of those sought were of nation-wide prominence because of their radical activities. Whether Rose Pastor Stokes, wealthy New York socialist and Ella Reeves, of the San Francisco Workers' Party, were among those wanted could not be ascertained although government agents said they had information that both had been at the rendezvous.

Search through the mass of papers and records seized in the Michigan raid revealed a complete list of names of those who attended or were expected to attend the convention, officers said. Records telling of a proposed plan to combine several radical factions into a communist party whose purpose would be the overthrow of the United States government and the setting up of a Soviet were found in the mass of letters and correspondence.

It was alleged today that the seventeen alleged "reds" caught in the raid, and who were arraigned yesterday at St. Joseph, Mich., would have a hearing within the next few days. All were held in bond of $10,000 each for violation of the Michigan state syndicalism law.

The city hall furnished the stage for scenes of deep tragic and dramatic finality. Past the plain coffin holding the body of Michael Collins draped with the tri-color and guarded by six officers of Collins' staff, filed hundreds of men and women and children. Collins' body was attired in the uniform in which he met death, the hands clasped a rosary.

Outside in the street the Dublin guards—the pet regiment of the dead commander in chief—were standing at attention. Through the lines of soldiers there was a continuous stream of people of all classes and conditions.

Senate debate turned from the bonus to the coal crisis and to the railroad strike.

Seizure of the mines by the president unless the anthracite strike is soon settled, urged by Senator Calder, Republican of New York, was before the senate interstate commerce committee in the form of a joint resolution offered by Senator Walsh, Democrat of Massachusetts to empower the president to take all mines whose products are shipped in interstate commerce in order to open them up and furnish coal to the people. ## FIND ANTIDOTE FOR AERIAL ATTACKS ON NAVAL VESSELS

London, August 25.—The British Navy has discovered an antidote for aerial attacks upon naval vessels and is confident that the battleship is still a powerful weapon despite advances made in aerial warfare.

Lord Lee, of Fareham, First Lord of the Admiralty, is authority for this announcement. The methods by which the navy expects to repel aerial attacks is being carefully guarded.

"I do not underestimate the value of the Air Service," Lord Lee declared, "but believe me it does not spell the end of the British Navy."

"The Admiralty claims today that it has already discovered and embodied in a design an antidote for all these new methods of attack whether by torpedo or by bomb. We are not in the least anxious about our position as long as we are allowed to go on with our work."

"The Admiralty and the Navy are not opposed to the development of the Air Service, but they are crying out for it, because the Air Service to the fleet has become quite as vital as the torpedo. We cannot be accused of trying to hold back, but the Navy must have control of its air service. The air service is as much a portion of the fleet, and should be as much under its direct control as the gun or the torpedo."

"The only complaint the Admiralty has to make against the Air Service is that, first, it is not developing fast enough, and secondly, it is not under control of the fleet. The air service should not be developed at the cost of the proved and tried weapon upon which we have had to rely in the past, and upon which we shall have to continue to rely."

Lord Lee's disclosures that the Admiralty have designed a means of defense against aerial attacks have led to considerable conjecture in London, where the battleship versus the aeroplane controversy is raging as it did in the United States two years ago.

The Atlantic Fleet has been in recent secret maneuvers, and the King has viewed these operations. It is reported that aerial attacks and aerial defenses formed an important part of these maneuvers, and it is most probable that the King has already seen the new and secret aerial defense in operation.

WILL COLONIZE RURAL DISTRICTS OF HAWAII SOON

Honolulu, August 25.—Colonization of the rural districts of Hawaii by "citizen farmers" recruited from among discharged soldiers of the United States in the islands and have there received, as a part of their military training, courses in tropical agriculture, will probably result from a conference held at Honolulu between Major-General Charles P. Summerall, U. S. A., commanding the Hawaiian Department of the United States army, Executive George P. Cooke, of the Hawaiian Homes Commission, and Dr. Elwood Mead, noted land-settlement expert, of the University of California, according to announcements made following the conference.

The need of Hawaii for a class of citizen farmers to offset the influence of the large number of Orientals now holding land in Hawaii, coupled with the expressed wish of hundreds of soldiers who annually receive their discharges in the islands, to remain there and settle down, caused the army authorities and those in charge of homesteading the agricultural lands of the Territory to get together with a view to outlining a working plan by which both objects might be accomplished.

The project, as now outlined and endorsed by General Summerall and Dr. Mead, contemplates the establishment, as a part of the Regular Army schools, of courses in tropical agriculture to be given throughout the enlistment term of three years. Experts from the faculty of the University of Hawaii would give the courses as a part of the extension work now maintained by the university. As an incentive to the enlisted men to take the agricultural courses, arrangements will be made to secure considerable areas of arable lands, which may be apportioned in small sub-divisions on long-term leases to those making application. It is also planned to arrange for financing those who take up the land in this manner, as well as for furnishing them with free advisory service when they are actually on the land.

It is stated by General Summerall that large numbers of soldiers discharged from army in Hawaii remain in the islands. Most of these men go into mechanical trades, and practically all of them make good, the General states.

STATE FAIR WILL HAVE NIGHT FEATURE

When the administrative group of buildings burned on the Ohio State Fair grounds on Aug. 4, considerable anxiety was felt among the many thousands who take in this great exposition every year. However, as far as the management is concerned, this conflagration has made no difference in this year's plans. Before the ruins were cold, a large force of men were at work in removing the debris. Director of Agriculture L. J. Taber immediately got in touch with companies which carry circus tents with a view to obtaining one large tent to cover the site formerly occupied by these buildings. Some of the exhibits which would have space in these structures will be moved to the Woman's building, which was not injured by the fire. Others will be housed under the "Big Top" when it arrives. In fact, there is no exhibitor who will be more than slightly inconvenienced and no exhibit which will be lost to the fair. The only evidence that State Fair patrons will notice of the recent loss to the management will be the immense spread of canvas in the center of the grounds.

All the live stock buildings, Coliseum, grand stand, in fact every structure of vital interest to fair visitors, was not injured and, since Ohio leads the world in money offerings this year, she should also be foremost in the class of exhibitions to be staged Aug. 28 to Sept. 2.

FIND ANTIDOTE FOR AERIAL ATTACKS ON NAVAL VESSELS

London, August 25.—The British Navy has discovered an antidote for aerial attacks upon naval vessels and is confident that the battleship is still a powerful weapon despite advances made in aerial warfare.

Lord Lee, of Fareham, First Lord of the Admiralty, is authority for this announcement. The methods by which the navy expects to repel aerial attacks is being carefully guarded.

"I do not underestimate the value of the Air Service," Lord Lee declared, "but believe me it does not spell the end of the British Navy."

"The Admiralty claims today that it has already discovered and embodied in a design an antidote for all these new methods of attack whether by torpedo or by bomb. We are not in the least anxious about our position as long as we are allowed to go on with our work."

"The Admiralty and the Navy are not opposed to the development of the Air Service, but they are crying out for it, because the Air Service to the fleet has become quite as vital as the torpedo. We cannot be accused of trying to hold back, but the Navy must have control of its air service. The air service is as much a portion of the fleet, and should be as much under its direct control as the gun or the torpedo."

"The only complaint the Admiralty has to make against the Air Service is that, first, it is not developing fast enough, and secondly, it is not under control of the fleet. The air service should not be developed at the cost of the proved and tried weapon upon which we have had to rely in the past, and upon which we shall have to continue to rely."

Lord Lee's disclosures that the Admiralty have designed a means of defense against aeroplane attacks have led to considerable conjecture in London, where the battleship versus the aeroplane controversy is raging as it did in the United States two years ago.

The Atlantic Fleet has been in recent secret maneuvers, and the King has viewed these operations. It is reported that aerial attacks and aerial defenses formed an important part of these maneuvers, and it is most probable that the King has already seen the new and secret aerial defense in operation.

WILL COLONIZE RURAL DISTRICTS OF HAWAII SOON

Honolulu, August 25.—Colonization of the rural districts of Hawaii by "citizen farmers" recruited from among discharged soldiers of the United States in the islands and have there received, as a part of their military training, courses in tropical agriculture, will probably result from a conference held at Honolulu between Major-General Charles P. Summerall, U. S. A., commanding the Hawaiian Department of the United States Army, Executive George F. Cooke, of the Hawaiian Homes Commission, and Dr. Elwood Mead, noted land-settlement expert of the University of California, according to announcements made following the conference.

The need of Hawaii for a class of citizen farmers to offset the influence of the large number of Orientals now holding land in Hawaii, coupled with the expressed wish of hundreds of soldiers who annually receive their discharges in the islands, to remain there and settle down, caused the army authorities and those in charge of homesteading the agricultural lands of the Territory to get together with a view to outlining a working plan by which both objects might be accomplished.

The project, as now outlined and endorsed by General Summerall and Dr. Mead, contemplates the establishment, as a part of the Regular Army schools, of courses in tropical agriculture to be given throughout the enlistment term of three years. Experts from the faculty of the University of Hawaii would give the courses as a part of the extension work now maintained by the university. As an incentive to the enlisted men to take the agricultural courses, arrangements will be made to secure considerable areas of arable lands, which may be apportioned in small sub-divisions on long-term leases to those making application. It is also planned to arrange for financing those who take up the land in this manner, as well as for furnishing them with free advisory service when they are actually on the land.

It is stated by General Summerall that large numbers of soldiers discharged from army in Hawaii remain in the islands. Most of these men go into mechanical trades, and practically all of them make good, the General states.

STATE FAIR WILL HAVE NIGHT FEATURE

When the administrative group of buildings burned on Aug. 4, considerable anxiety was felt among the many thousands who take in this great exposition every year. However, as far as the management is concerned, this conflagration has made no difference in this year's plans. Before the ruins were cold, a large force of men were at work in removing the debris. Director of Agriculture L. J. Taber immediately got in touch with companies which carry circus tents with a view to obtaining one large tent to cover the site formerly occupied by these buildings. Some of the exhibits which would have space in these structures will be moved to the Woman's building, which was not injured by the fire. Others will be housed under the "Big Top" when it arrives. In fact, there is no exhibitor who will be more than slightly inconvenienced and no exhibit which will be lost to the fair. ### DRILLERS STRIKE GAS AT DEPTH OF 523 FEET

Drilling operations of the Summit Oil and Gas Company, a local corporation, drilling for oil near Shoup's Station, was temporarily suspended when at a depth of 523 feet, a volume of gas came into the well with a roar at about midnight Wednesday night.

Officials of the company Friday, basing their claims on the findings of the gas and the peculiar geological formations discovered were hopeful that continued drilling would result in a discovery of oil within the next 600 or 800 feet. Drilling operations have been going on day and night.

Finding the gas in such a shallow well was unexpected and changes calculations of drillers so that they are not sure how soon oil should be discovered, if there is any. After the gas came into the well, drilling operations ceased for fear of setting the gas on fire and drillers immediately sent to West Virginia for a packer, which will be used to change the size of the casing from ten-inch to eight inch and which will keep out water which immediately filled the well when drilling was brought to a stop. The packer was expected Friday afternoon and drilling will be resumed as soon as the change is made.

George Overholster, experienced driller, who has charge of the operations for the company, has never found similar geological conditions in Ohio, he told company officials. The drill has not yet struck rock, going down through blue clay and shale and had only penetrated into the gas bearing sand four feet, when the gas pocket was reached. The sand itself is dark gray in color, of a type never before found in Ohio, and considered rare, according to Overholster. Officials believe the gas comes through a rock fissure much farther down than the drill has reached and that it will be discovered with much greater volume as the drilling continues. The finding of gas which always comes before oil, is taken as an indicator of oil further down, by Overholster, and the statement of geologists that the earth must be caved in at this point, accounting for the fact that no rock formation has been reached is said to indicate the possibility of an oil basin. Oil has been found in other parts of Ohio in Trenton Rock 1200 or more feet from the surface.

A party of local stockholders in the company composed of Marcus Shoup, J. Kenneth Williamson, H. S. DeSourd, F. L. Smith and H. E. Rice motored out to see the drilling operations Friday morning.

HOLD FUNERAL FOR OWENS SATURDAY

Grady, 536 West Main St. Burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

The young man was fatally injured when the automobile in which he was riding with Harry Derrick, 118 Center St., skidded in fresh gravel and turned over, young Owens being pinned beneath the car. He died at McClellan Hospital. He had been employed as a barber by his father Elmer Owens, Sr., who is perhaps better known by the name of Pete Pratt. Surviving are his parents, a brother Elmer, Jr., and two sisters. Mrs. Fred Wilson of Bellefontaine and Miss Pauline at home. The Laterner car traveled to the corner of Detroit and Third Streets, where a wheel damaged in the collision broke down, and the parties telephoned police headquarters, claiming that the accident was caused when the Craig machine was not parked close enough to the curb.

Patrolman Stephens investigated the accident and held that Craig's car was within its bounds. No charges were filed. Both fenders of the Craig machine on one side were damaged, and the wheel of the other car broken in the collision.

The most severe damage was felt at the Hagar Straw Board and Paper Company at Cedarville, where lightning struck the barns and twenty-two mules and a quantity of straw were destroyed. Corn and other crops over the county were not damaged to any extent, wind and rain playing the more prominent part in the storm outside of Xenia city, where hail stones of immense size fell for some time. Roads and bridges over the county were in good shape after the storm, which did not impair telephone or light service.

Drilling operations of the Summit Oil and Gas Company, a local corporation, drilling for oil near Shoup's Station, was temporarily suspended when at a depth of 523 feet, a volume of gas came into the well with a roar, at about midnight Wednesday night.

Officials of the company Friday, basing their claims on the findings of the gas and the peculiar geological formations discovered were hopeful that continued drilling would result in a discovery of oil within the next 600 or 800 feet. Drilling operations have been going on day and night.

Finding the gas in such a shallow well was unexpected and changes calculations of drillers so that they are not sure how soon oil should be discovered, if there is any. After the gas came into the well, drilling operations ceased for fear of setting the gas on fire and drillers immediately sent to West Virginia for a packer, which will be used to change the size of the casing from ten-inch to eight inch and which will keep out water which immediately filled the well when drilling was brought to a stop. The packer was expected Friday afternoon and drilling will be resumed as soon as the change is made.

George Overholser, experienced driller, who has charge of the operations for the company, has never found similar geological conditions in Ohio, he told company officials. The drill has not yet struck rock, going down through blue clay and shale and had only penetrated into the gas bearing sand four feet, when the gas pocket was reached. The sand itself is dark gray in color, of a type never before found in Ohio, and considered rare, according to Overholser. Officials believe the gas comes through a rock fissure much farther down than the drill has reached and that it will be discovered with much greater volume as the drilling continues. The finding of gas which always comes before oil, is taken as an indicator of oil further down, by Overholser, and the statement of geologists that the earth must be carved in at this point, accounting for the fact that no rock formation has been reached is said to indicate the possibility of an oil basin. Oil has been found in other parts of Ohio in Trenton Rock 1200 or more feet from the surface.

HOLD FUNERAL FOR OWENS SATURDAY

Grady, 536 West Main St. Burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

The young man was fatally injured when the automobile in which he was riding with Harry Derrick, 118 Center St., skidded in fresh gravel and turned over, young Owens being pinned beneath the car. He died at McClellan Hospital. He had been employed as a barber by his father Elmer Owens, Sr., who is perhaps better known by the name of Pete Pratt. Surviving are his parents, a brother Elmer, Jr., and two sisters, Mrs. Fred Wilson of Bellefontaine and Miss Pauline at home. Miss Owen was visiting her sister at Bellefontaine at the time of the accident and both arrived here Thursday evening.

Two automobiles were damaged when the Ford touring car owned by S. B. Craig, Waynesville R. R. 1, parked along West Main Street near Pratt's grocery, was struck by an Overland light Sedan owned by C. E. Latner, 1511 James Avenue, Kalamazoo, Michigan, and driven by Mrs. Latner, about 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The Latner car traveled to the corner of Detroit and Third Streets, where a wheel damaged in the collision broke down, and the parties telephoned police headquarters, claiming that the accident was caused when the Craig machine was not parked close enough to the curb.

Patrolman Stephens investigated the accident and held that Craig's car was within its bounds. No charges were filed. Both fenders of the Craig machine on one side were damaged, and the wheel of the other car broken in the collision.

"KISS YOUR WIFE, WITH ONE ARM AROUND HER WAIST."

"Our own" Fred C. Kelly, of Xenia, has become such a noted writer that you find his articles in half the monthly magazines you pick up. And they are always interesting. The following are the opening paragraphs of one by him, entitled "How Gubbison Picks out his Salesmen," in the American Magazine for September:

"Before you leave home in the morning, kiss your wife goodbye. Don't just give her a perfunctory peck on the cheek, as if it were a routine chore. Put one arm around her waist, the other around her neck, hug her tight, and give her a kiss on the lips that she will remember all the rest of the day."

The speaker, Clifford Milton Gubbison, is no authority on love-making. He was merely giving a few directions on intelligent salesmanship to a man he had just employed. "No man who kisses his wife goodby in the fashion indicated," says Gubbison, "can leave home with a grouchy on. Neither does he leave his wife in ill humor. All day long he is a better salesman. Because he knows that he has something to work for. It is equally important on returning in the evening to say cheerily, 'Well, I'm back!' and kiss her again."

"Gubbison was for several years the sales manager of the Jewel Tea Company, which employed 2,600 salesmen. Each of these men drove a team and wagon, making regular trips over a route through the country selling household commodities to farmers. Their routes were scattered all over the United States. From this association Gubbison learned many odd facts about human nature, and developed original methods of selecting and instructing salesmen."

COX IS REVIEWING GERMAN SITUATION.

James M. Cox, formerly Governor of Ohio, has arrived in Berlin, after an automobile tour of virtually all Western Europe, and has interviewed Chancellor Wirth, Dr. von Helfferich and others.

Although he is not giving out interviews until his tour is completed, Mr. Cox maintains that American participation in European affairs is absolutely essential to the best interests of both Europe and America. He has just come out of Austria, and believes that country cannot endure much longer and is faced with a catastrophe. He thinks Austria's salvation lies in union with Czechoslovakia.

Mr. Cox characterized the Czecho Premier, M. Benes, as "one of the greatest statesmen in Europe," and called the Czech Constitution "a remarkable document, combining democratic ideals with great practical innovations."

Both France and Germany seem to him to be in a desperate condition. Austrian agriculture does not appear as hopeless as painted, he declares.

THE "WOMEN'S VOTE."

With the holding of primaries and the looming of elections, conversation on the subject of "women's vote" grows. Yet it is probable that most women will vote as citizens and not as women, in spite of political floundering to the contrary.

A man seeking nomination as governor of one state was asked whether he intended to make any special play for the feminine vote. His reply is interesting: "Why no. Women are people. I've never discovered any particular difference between women and men, except that women have a somewhat keener sense of what they want. They're more decided in their views. I purpose to put my case before the people as a whole as completely as I can, and make an intelligent campaign. And I believe that the women will respond as readily as men."

This is the ideal attitude toward women as a voter. When a woman takes her ballot in her hand it is as a citizen, not as a member of a particular sex.

Women are fitting themselves by careful study of issues and candidates to vote intelligently. They want platforms which decant citizens can support, and when they find them they will support them.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR BIG CORN YIELD.

The Illinois Central reports prospects still favorable for a good yield of corn. Oats threshing is about completed. Fall plowing has made good headway in many sections of Iowa, and increased wheat acreage is indicated. Pastures and gardens continue in good shape. Tobacco is making good progress in Kentucky and Tennessee, with cutting started in some districts. Cotton condition is good to very good, and picking has started in some localities of Mississippi and Louisiana. Sugar cane and rice continue doing well. Many Southern pastures and gardens need rain.

Corn and cotton need rain all over the Atchison's territory, although showers fell in Southern sections last week. Cotton has been damaged in Oklahoma by boll weevil and in Southern Texas by army worm, while in Central Texas injury has been checked. Shock threshing of small grains is about completed and stack threshing is progressing. Oklahoma farmers are disposed to hold their wheat, although more is being sold than railroads can haul. Kansas farmers sell freely. Many elevators are filled and enough cars cannot be furnished to move the grain.

DO YOU KNOW?

Securities of the State of Pennsylvania have been insured for $26,000,000 against burglary. This is the largest policy of its kind ever written.

Miss Marie Ryan, one of the largest paint dealers in Brooklyn, N. Y., is the only woman member of the Paint Jobbers' Association in that city.

The annual wheat feed production in the United States amounts to 4,750,000 tons. A train 1800 miles long would be required to transport this material.

Southern Texas is rapidly becoming a big factor in the mohair industry. During the year 1921 4,000,000 pounds of domestic goods were shipped from that territory.

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

Xenia seems to be able to stand a couple of circuses a week and give both good patronage. The Nickel Plate circus on Saturday night had a big crowd in attendance.

The delegates to the convention were selected as follows: Charles Robinson, Jamestown; Michael Murray, Yellow Springs; Steph-

FOR FRIVOLOUS MOMENTS

A few years ago I met a girl who failed to make a favorable impression until she wore a simple evening frock. I emphasize "simple" because rich materials and elaborate trimmings would have made her ludicrous. I recall she had pretty blue eyes, expressing candor and childish wonder. Her other features and her complexion were neither good nor bad. Her hair was wispy and somewhat drab in color. Probably she was still in her twenties, but her short plump figure was already setting at the waistline.

She was visiting an aunt when we met, a woman who was never so happy as when planning a dinner party. At her informal evenings at home, the casual guest might easily assume that such an interesting group girl friends ran into her home for a hasty call and found themselves in an amusing situation. They had always been welcome and still had no doubt of it, even when they found their hostess confused and awkward because she was trying to hide the fact that a dinner party was about due. The young men were already beginning to arrive early and Fredaline was completing a painfully perfect toilette. The girl were tactful enough to make plausible excuses for a hasty departure.

In tomorrow's Chat we will follow out Fredaline's experiences.

Tiny.—Hollows and dark circles under the eyes are the result of poor health. Build yourself up with good food, fresh air and exercise.

Jane.—Massaging the face with a cold cream will not do it any harm if the cream is good and pure. Most people need a cream as a cleansing agent, and people with rough dry skins are in need of a different sort of people must have been carefully chosen—yet they all just happened to call. It was a lively party, just the kind in which a timid creature like Fredaline should have expanded; but the summer was more than half gone and the girl was still unnoticed. "She was such a pretty, sweet child," Mrs. B. would sometimes exclaim when the remark had no place in any running conversation.

One day several of Mrs. B.'s many

GOOD CREDIT.

To have good credit in your town! There is no worthier renown; to have the merchant princes say, "That delegate is splendid pay!" When you have won so high a fame you are a winner in life's game, and when you've found your last repose, from 12 to 1 the stores will close. Good credit has its drawbacks, too; I have discovered quite a few. Now, all our merchant princes know I pay up promptly as I go, and when I drift into their stores, they and their clerks are simply bores; they want to sell me all they have, from anvils down to beeswax salve. They hate to see me get away; they want to sell me bales of hay, and suits of clothes and pairs of shoes, and stovepipe hats and liquid glues. They want to show cane-seated chairs, stuffed crocodiles and pickled pears. They've just received a shipment fine of gherkins in imported brine. They grab my coattails when I'd go, and yank and pull me to and fro to show me corn beef in a pail and tripe and prunes and shredded whale. They grab my sideboards in their haste to show me pots of rancid paste. At last, when haply I escape, my form is pulled all out of shape, my coat is split, my collar spoiled, my temper and my whiskers soiled.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

HARMONY OF INTELLIGENCE
How happy for us all if we were able to make all of our differing ideas and thoughts with those about us finally meet on a harmonious plane.

We could—and would—if we placed a higher value on our own intelligence.

There is a refined dignity to the mind that refuses to step down into an atmosphere unworthy of its grade of intelligence.

I like to think of this state of mind as one of harmony with itself and with any other mind of equal control.

Intelligence implies deep and great understanding—broadness of viewpoint and vision and an ability to analyze.

I walk into some offices and I immediately feel that there is harmony of intelligent labor therein. And in many groups of conversing people I have found the same thing.

It is ignorance that causes friction. I remember the story of a famous writer whose critic became so irritated that he finally challenged the writer to a duel. "All right," replied the writer, "I accept your challenge and choose words for my weapons."

The bitter one was so astounded that he had nothing more to say. He was out of harmony with a better mind and had the sense left to recognize it.

The intelligence of people does not have to be equal in order to work in cooperative fashion. The little piccolo in a great orchestra would get the immediate attention of the master leader should it for a moment get out of tune.

The spiritually minded man is he whose thoughts melt evenly and happily into those of the infinite God, whose thoughts permeate every beautiful thing in life and nature.

So that our most important task is to use our intelligence for complete harmony, that our finished works may neglect our best self right out in full light.

And it's so much worth while.

FIND ANTIDOTE FOR AERIAL ATTACKS ON NAVAL VESSELS

London, August 25.—The British Navy has discovered an antidote for aerial attacks upon naval vessels and is confident that the battleship is still a powerful weapon despite advances made in aerial warfare.

Lord Lee, of Fareham, First Lord of the Admiralty, is authority for this announcement. The methods by which the navy expects to repel aerial attacks is being carefully guarded.

"I do not underestimate the value of the Air Service," Lord Lee declared, "but believe me it does not spell the end of the British Navy."

"The Admiralty claims today that it has already discovered and embodied in a design an antidote for all these new methods of attack whether by torpedo or by bomb. We are not in the least anxious about our position as long as we are allowed to go on with our work."

"The Admiralty and the Navy are not opposed to the development of the Air Service, but they are crying out for it, because the Air Service to the fleet has become quite as vital as the torpedo. We cannot be accused of trying to hold back, but the Navy must have control of its air service. The air service is as much a portion of the fleet, and should be as much under its direct control as the gun or the torpedo."

"The only complaint the Admiralty has to make against the Air Service is that, first, it is not developing fast enough, and secondly, it is not under control of the fleet. The air service should not be developed at the cost of the proved and tried weapon upon which we have had to rely in the past, and upon which we shall have to continue to rely."

Lord Lee's disclosures that the Admiralty have designed a means of defense against aeroplane attacks have led to considerable conjecture in London, where the battleship versus the aeroplane controversy is raging as it did in the United States two years ago.

The Atlantic Fleet has been in recent secret maneuvers, and the King has viewed these operations. It is reported that aerial attacks and aerial defenses formed an important part of these maneuvers, and it is most probable that the King has already seen the new and secret aerial defense in operation.

WILL COLONIZE RURAL DISTRICTS OF HAWAII SOON

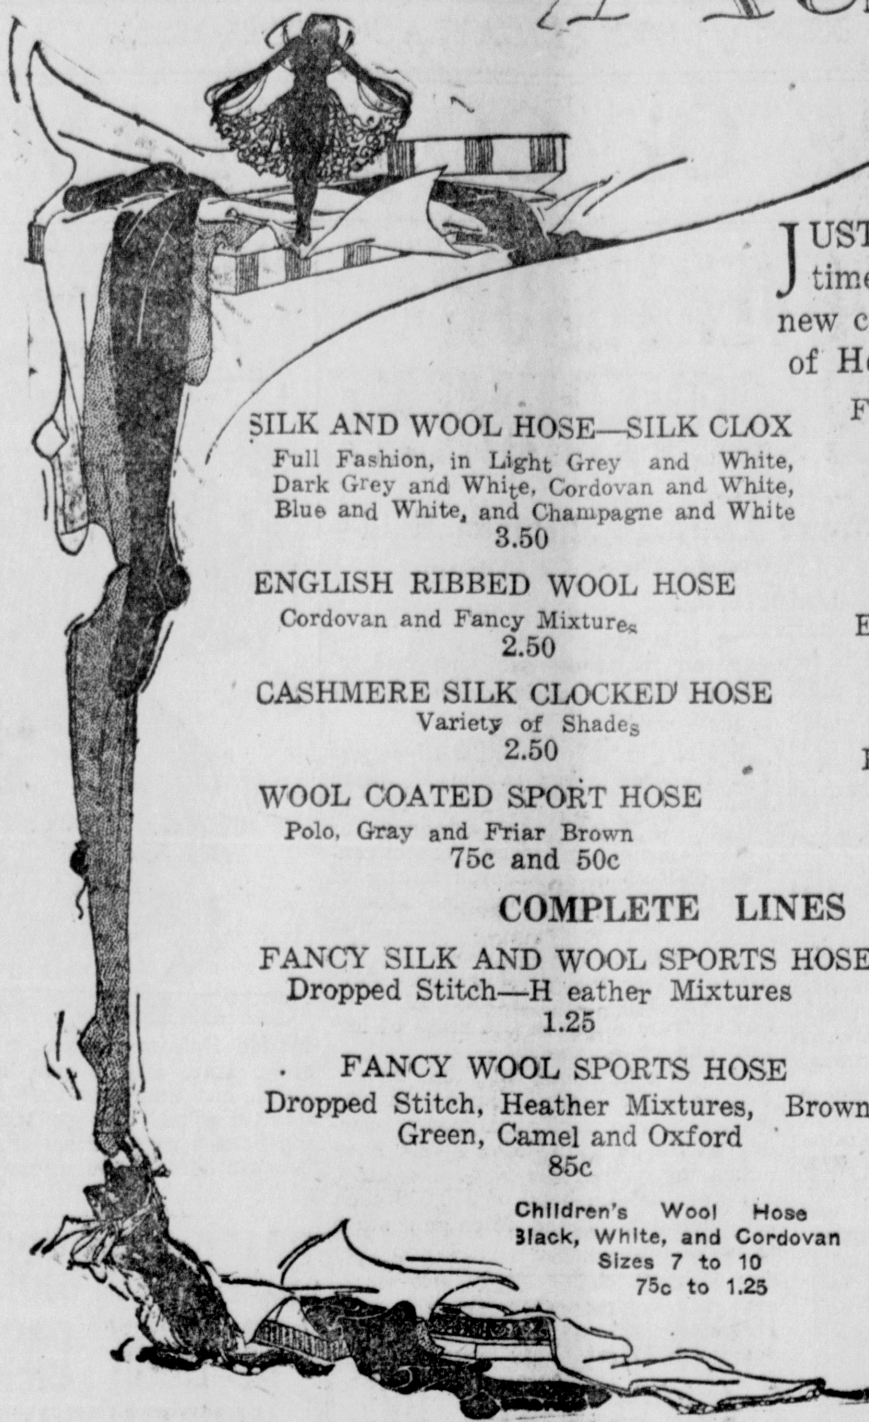

Honolulu, August 25.—Colonization of the rural districts of Hawaii by "citizen farmers" recruited from among discharged soldiers of the United States in the islands and have received, as a part of their military training, courses in tropical agriculture, will probably result from a conference held at Honolulu between Major-General Charles P. Summerall, U. S. A., commanding the Hawaiian Department of the United States army, Executive George F. Cooke, of the Hawaiian Homes Commission, and Dr. Elwood Mead, noted land-settlement expert, of the University of California, according to announcements made following the conference.

The need of Hawaii for a class of citizen farmers to offset the influence of the large number of Orientals now holding land in Hawaii, coupled with the expressed wish of hundreds of soldiers who annually receive their discharges in the islands, to remain there and settle down, caused the army authorities and those in charge of homesteading the agricultural lands of the Territory to get together with a view to outlining a working plan by which both objects might be accomplished.

The project, as now outlined and endorsed by General Summerall and Dr. Mead, contemplates the establishment, as a part of the Regular Army schools, of courses in tropical agriculture to be given throughout the enlistment term of three years. Experts from the faculty of the University of Hawaii would give the courses as a part of the extension work now maintained by the university. As an incentive to the enlisted men to take the agricultural courses, arrangements will be made to secure considerable areas of arable lands, which may be apportioned in small sub-divisions on long-term leases to those making application. It is also planned to arrange for financing those who take up the land in this manner, as well as for furnishing them with free advisory service when they are actually on the land.

It is stated by General Summerall that large numbers of soldiers discharged from army in Hawaii remain in the islands. Most of these men go into mechanical trades, and practically all of them make good, the General states.

STATE FAIR WILL HAVE NIGHT FEATURE

When the administrative group of buildings burned on the Ohio State Fair grounds on Aug. 4, considerable anxiety was felt among the many thousands who take in this great exhibition every year. However, as far as the management is concerned, this conflagration has made no difference in this year's plans. Before the ruins were cold, a large force of men were at work in removing the debris. Director of Agriculture L. J. Taber immediately got in touch with companies which carry circus tents with a view to obtaining one large tent to cover the site formerly occupied by these buildings. Some of the exhibits which would have space in these structures will be moved to the Woman's building, which was not injured by the fire. Others will be housed under the "Big Top" when it arrives. In fact, there is no exhibitor who will be more than slightly inconvenienced and no exhibit which will be lost to the fair. The only evidence that State Fair patrons will notice of the recent loss to the management will be the immense spread of canvas in the center of the grounds.

All the live stock buildings, Coliseum, grand stand, in fact every structure of vital interest to fair visitors, was not injured and, since Ohio leads the world in money offerings this year, she should also be foremost in the class of exhibitions to be staged Aug. 28 to Sept. 2.

FARMER MURDERED BY CHICKEN THIEVES

Celina, August 24.—A victim of his own gun, Edward H. Moyer, 60, farmer residing near Rockford, was found murdered near his home Wednesday night, after an attempt to route chicken thieves.

Aroused by the depredations of thieves on his hen roost, Moyer had slept in a barn several nights to catch the marauders. He is believed to have fired one shot at a band of thieves Wednesday night and then given chase to them down a lane. It is believed the thieves ambushed the farmer, took his gun from him and then shot him. The thieves abandoned a quantity of beef and lard stolen from a smokehouse.

CHARGES ARE BRANDED BY WHEELER AS "FOOLISH"

Washington, Aug. 25.—False, flimsy and foolish was the description applied by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the anti saloon league today to the charges of representative Tinkham, Republican of Massachusetts that the league had poured money into the seventh Minnesota district to elect representative A. V. Volstead, father of the dry law. Wheeler charged Tinkham of stabbing the 18th amendment in the back by advocating light wines and beer.

ADVOCATES OF FOREIGN VALUATION CONFIDENT

Washington, Aug. 25.—Exponents of the foreign valuation plan of tariff taxation were confident of victory today as senate and house conferees resumed their "harmony" conference on the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill. A majority of the conferees, it was learned, favored the foreign plan as opposed to the American valuation plan.

Styles BY LENORE

In this simple frock of dark blue crepe morocain the side line is effectively emphasized by gilt, braid buttons and square loops of gilt and red braid. These square loops, by the way, are an exceedingly individual, and decorative touch. The neck, too, is outlined with a border of the red and gold, and if further evidence is required of the distinctive character of this frock, regard the novel belt, which is of red kid, slashed into half-inch fringe on both sides.

Another attractive frock created in the same shop where the pictured one was sketched, and of the same "slinky" type so much liked by well-dressed young women, was also made of dark blue crepe, all flat about the hips, with a slightly lowered belt of pleated Georgette, from which suspended at the side two very narrow panels of the pleating. The sleeves were full length and tight, finished with mousquetaire cuffs of white organdie edged with a triple row of self-cording, the same idea completing the collar, which was bateau shaped. A navy blue hat with upturned brim in white corded Georgette was posed with this frock.

OGLESBEE-ANDERSON WEDDING SOLEMNIZED

Quite the most brilliant of weddings solemnized in this vicinity recently was that of Miss Helen Pauline Oglesbee, daughter of Mrs. Nancy Oglesbee, of Cedarville, and Mr. William Wallace Anderson, prominent young farmer of the county, which took place at the Oglesbee home on Xenia Avenue, Cedarville, Thursday evening at six-thirty o'clock.

Over one hundred bidden guests witnessed the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. J. P. White, of the United Presbyterian Church of Cedarville, the bride's pastor, assisted by the Rev. Charles P. Proudft, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church of this city, the bridegroom's pastor.

Green and white predominated in the decorations of the rooms of the Oglesbee home for the occasion, white clematis combined with green fern being used in attractive profusion.

The marriage bans were solemnized in the living room, where two tall white standards, bearing baskets of white roses, placed on each side of a lattice intertwined with clematis formed the handsome bower for the ceremony.

At the appointed hour, the officiating clergyman, the Rev. Dr. White, with Dr. Proudft, in company with the bridegroom, and his best man, Mr. Kraer Ferguson of Washington, Pa., entered and took their places to the left of the altar.

The bride came down the stairway with her attendants, led by Master Irvin Marshall, son of Judge and Mrs. J. Carl Marshall of this city, as ring bearer, who was dressed in white. Next came little Miss Jane Finney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Finney of Xenia, a dainty figure dressed in white, as flower girl, who strewed rose petals from a basket in the path of the bride.

Miss Dorothy Oglesbee, sister of the bride, as maid of honor walked next, wearing a handsome gown of green crepe de chine, and carrying a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, caught with a bow of tulle.

The bride, who entered next, was a charming picture in her bridal gown of white satin crepe, with an over dress of Chantilly lace. Her veil of tulle was caught with a band about her head, falling to the floor, forming a train. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of brides' roses, with a huge bow of tulle.

Preceding the ceremony and before the entrance of the bride party, Mrs. James Hawkins of this city sang for the assembled guests, "I Love You Truly," and "O Promise Me." She was accompanied by Miss Martha Anderson, sister of the bridegroom, who blended from the selections into the wedding march from Lohengrin.

The impressive double ring ceremony was performed in uniting the couple.

Immediately following the wedding service the guests were ushered to the dining room, where a three-course dinner was served.

The bride's table, a prominent feature, was prettily appointed, with decorations of green and white. Green ribbon, with white tulle combined to form a canopy leading from the corners of the table to the chandelier, the centerpiece of the table being formed by hug bouquet of white roses placed on a mirror tray. Place cards at each cover and dainty mint containers carried out the green and white color scheme.

Covers were laid at the bride's table for Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Anderson, Miss Dorothy Oglesbee, Mr. Kraer Ferguson, of Washington, Pa., Miss Martha Anderson, the Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Chestnut, of Covington, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. James Hawkins of Xenia; Mrs. Mary Bird, Miss Mary Chestnut, of Cedarville, Miss Edna Ehlerding, of Norwood, O., Dr. E. H. Hubner, of Cedarville, and Mr. William Milligan, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

The other guests were seated at small tables arranged throughout the rooms, centered with sprays of white clematis.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left Thursday night on their honeymoon, which they will spend in the mountains of Virginia. Mrs. Anderson's traveling outfit was a suit of brown with hat and shoes to match.

Upon their return they will reside on the Anderson farm, of the Jamestown, pike. Mrs. Anderson is a prominent girl of the vicinity and is a graduate of Cedarville High School, with the class of 1914 and of Cedarville College, with the class of 1918. Many prenuptial parties have been given in this city and Cedarville, in honor of her approaching marriage.

Her father was the late Dr. E. C. Oglesbee, prominent Cedarville physician. She is an accomplished musician and popular in a large circle of friends.

Mr. Anderson is a well known young Greene County farmer, being actively connected with farm interests. He is the son of the late Representative S. C. Anderson and is a former student of Cedarville College.

Among the out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were the following: Mrs. O. H. Milligan and son William, of Avalon, Pa.; the Misses Clara and Edna Ehlerding, of Norwood, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Sterrett, Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Pollock, Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. William Collins West Liberty, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Ballentine, Springfield, Mrs. Dean, Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Oglesbee, Wilmington, Mrs. Susan Peterson, Wilmington, the Rev. and Mrs. James H. Chestnut, Covington, Ohio, Miss Ruth Carnes, Baltimore, Md., and the Rev. and Mrs. C. P. Proudft, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. John Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryson, and two children, Martha and Jane, Mr. and Mrs. J. Earl McClellan, and Mrs. J. Carl Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Finney, Mrs. Arch Anderson and son James; Mr. and Mrs. William H. McGrovey, Mr. and Mrs. James Hawkins, Mrs. D. S. Ervin and daughter, Miss Mary Ervin, all of Xenia, and Mr. Kraer Ferguson, of Washington, Pa.

HUNGRY FEELS GRATEFUL TO U. S.

New York August 25.—Hungary is grateful to the United States for its aid, says Captain A. G. Pedlow, for two and one half years commissioner to Hungary of the American Red Cross, who has returned from Budapest via England on the Cunarder Laconia. Friends who were with him said that when Captain Pedlow left Budapest 30,000 children assembled to bid him good-by.

"With the closing of the American Red Cross work in Hungary on July 1," said Captain Pedlow "thousands of the former wealthy and the professional classes there are in dire need. With the present price of the dollar ranging from 1,500 to 1,600 kronen and the high price of food, the class which depends upon an income for its living is in a poverty stricken condition."

"At a number of autopsies held recently in Budapest," he continued, "to determine the cause of death among the professional classes the verdict of the medical men was that it was due to starvation."

"The Hungarians realize what the United States has done for them in relief work and feeding the children and have a very friendly feeling toward this country. Fifty per cent of the hospitals and orphanages would have been kept closed this year if it

DARK SESSION IS HELD BY MEMBERS OF COMMISSION

City commissioners in session Thursday night operated in the dark a great deal of the time.

This does not mean that the body went into star chamber session and kept its business a total secret.

On the other hand, the commission was forced to sit in the dark at three different times during the meeting, because the Dayton Power & Light Company current failed that number of times, and lights were extinguished casting the commission chamber in darkness.

Having read all the comedy magazines concerning city officials, the lawmakers kept one hand on their pocketbooks while the glimmers were doused. The meeting was the first at which there was a full attendance of the commission since the middle of July. President H. L. Smith has been ill and Major M. J. Hartley has been on a month's trip.

had not been for the aid given by the American Red Cross."

With regard to political conditions Captain Pedlow said that Hungary was quiet under the provisional Government, but the people were in favor of the monarchical form of government.

Corn and other crops over the county were not damaged to any extent, wind and rain playing the more prominent part in the storm outside of Xenia city, where hail stones of immense size fell for some time. ## DRILLERS STRIKE GAS AT DEPTH OF 523 FEET

Drilling operations of the Summit Oil and Gas Company, a local corporation, drilling for oil near Shou's Station, was temporarily suspended when at a depth of 523 feet, a volume of gas came into the well with a roar at about midnight Wednesday night.

Officials of the company Friday, basing their claims on the finding of the gas and the peculiar geological formations discovered were hopeful that continued drilling would result in a discovery of oil within the next 600 or 800 feet. Drilling operations have been going on day and night.

Finding the gas in such a shallow well was unexpected and changes calculations of drillers so that they are not sure how soon oil should be discovered, if there is any. After the gas came into the well, drilling operations ceased for fear of setting the gas on fire and drillers immediately sent to West Virginia for a packer, which will be used to change the size of the casing from ten-inch to eight inch and which will keep out water which immediately filled the well when drilling was brought to a stop. The packer was expected Friday afternoon and drilling will be resumed as soon as the change is made.

George Overholster, experienced driller, who has charge of the operations for the company, has never found similar geological conditions in Ohio, he told company officials.

The drill has not yet struck rock, going down through blue clay and shale and had only penetrated into the gas bearing sand four feet, when the gas pocket was reached. The sand itself is dark gray in color, of a type never before found in Ohio, and considered rare, according to Overholster. Officials believe the gas comes through a rock fissure much farther down than the drill has reached and that it will be discovered with much greater volume as the drilling continues. The finding of gas which always comes before oil, is taken as an indicator of oil further down, by Overholster, and the statement of geologists that the earth must be caved in at this point, accounting for the fact that no rock formation has been reached is said to indicate the possibility of an oil basin. Oil has been found in other parts of Ohio in Trenton Rock 1200 or more feet from the surface.

A party of local stockholders in the company composed of Marcus Shoup, J. Kenneth Williamson, H. E. LeSourd, F. L. Smith and H. E. Rice motored out to see the drilling operations Friday morning.

HOLD FUNERAL FOR OWENS SATURDAY

Grady, 536 West Main St. Burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

The young man was fatally injured when the automobile in which he was riding with Harry Derrick, 118 Center St., skidded in fresh gravel and turned over, young Owens being pinned beneath the car. He died at McClellan Hospital. He had been employed as a barber by his father Elmer Owens, Sr., who is perhaps better known by the name of Pete Pratt. Surviving are his parents, a brother Elmer, Jr., and two sisters, Mrs. Fred Wilson of Bellefontaine and Miss Pauline at home. Miss Owen was visiting her sister at Bellefontaine at the time of the accident and both arrived here Thursday evening.

CARS DAMAGED IN COLLISION

Two automobiles were damaged when the Ford touring car owned by S. B. Craig, Waynesville R. R. 1, parked along West Main Street near Pratt's grocery, was struck by an Overland light Sedan owned by C. E. Laterner, 1511 James Avenue, Kalamazoo, Michigan, and driven by Mrs. Laterner, about 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The Laterner car traveled to the corner of Detroit and Third Streets, where a wheel damaged in the collision broke down, and the parties telephoned police headquarters, claiming that the accident was caused when the Craig machine was not parked close enough to the curb.

Patrolman Stephens investigated the accident and held that Craig's car was within its bounds. No charges were filed. Both fenders of the Craig machine on one side were damaged, and the wheel of the other car broken in the collision.

Six IMPROVEMENTS ARE NOW UNDER WAY AT REGIL HOTEL

Extensive repairs now being undertaken on the Regil Hotel, Main and Whiteman streets, are expected to greatly improve the accommodations and comfort of that hostelry.

Plumbers are now at work on the hotel, installing hot and cold running water in every room, an improvement which was promised when E. L. Liger, present landlord, took over the lease some time ago, but which had never been carried out.

The running water improvement is expected to greatly increase the popularity of the hostelry, and will move the hotel out of the "howl and pitch" class it has occupied since its erection. The new fixtures will be of the latest type and each stationery washstand will be curtained off from the rest of the room.

In connection with the installation of running water in every room, 12 new private bath rooms are being added to the hotel facilities, abandoned closets and unused space being utilized to add this provision of comfort without cutting down the room capacity of the hostelry.

Manager Liger has increased the size and enhanced the appearance of the lobby, by utilizing the space formerly used as a private dining room, tearing out the partition in the rear of the desk and moving the desk back, thus creating a greater lobby space which has been redecorated and which will be furnished to compare with the present lobby.

CRIPPLE CREEK IS AGAIN COMING INTO ITS OWN

Cripple Creek, Colo. Aug. 25.—The Cripple Creek Camp once the greatest gold camp in the world is coming into its own again, after a period of comparative inactivity since 1918, with the reopening of many old workings and the discovery of new veins of rich ore.

Rich "surface" strikes, recently made in the camp, are drawing scores of prospectors to the camp and with numerous underground mines, Cripple Creek is staging a real "come back" as a gold producing center.

Finding rich gold ore at grass roots at the same time that new veins were discovered at a depth of more than 2,500 feet below the earth's surface is one of the "freak" developments of the new prosperity in the camp.

"STUMBLER" ON GOLD
Sol Cain, one of the pioneer prospectors of Cripple Creek, literally "stumbled his toe" on a body of ore of great extent and value, less than a dozen feet below the surface, at a point over which countless feet have trodden for thirty years—since the precious yellow metal was first located in the shadow of Pike's Peak here.

Cain is taking ore from his shallow mine valued as high as $300 of gold to the ton and has a real gold mine in the making.

Other important strikes have been made recently at or near the surface, and mining men are declaring that the day of the "grass-root mine" has returned.

The famous Portland Mine, from which millions of dollars' worth of ore have been taken in the past, has located an immense body of ore at a depth of 2,600 feet, the lowest producing level in the State of Colorado, and ore is being taken from this new vein which has settled for as high as $10,000 to the ton at the mill.

ALL PRODUCING AGAIN
Practically every active mine in the Cripple Creek field is producing gold ore running two, three and four ounces or better to the ton—at a time when one-ounce gold is considered profitable production.

From the early nineties when gold was first discovered in the Cripple Creek region, until America's entry in the World War, the fame of this camp spread until Cripple Creek was a name to conjure with among mining men throughout the entire world. Huge fortunes had been extracted from the nearby hills, but "war prices" for powder, steel, coal, labor and everything else used in wresting the yellow dust from mother earth made

FIFTEEN YEAR OLD MUSICIAN WHO SUFFERED BROKEN BACK IN BOAT DISASTER WANT TO VISIT WHITE HOUSE

Cincinnati, August 25.—Husky and sunburned from three weeks spent in the open air at his home in Manchester, Ohio 15-year-old Wilbur Morgan, whose back was broken in steamer gold mining highly unprofitable with the price of gold standing still at $20.67 per ounce.

As a consequence many mines here were forced to close; miners drifted away to other employments and the "greatest gold camp in the world" took on a look of desolation.

With better mining conditions now prevailing and fabulous finds being made on every side in old and new properties, the faith of those who stuck to the camp through the dark days of depression and decline is being vindicated and today Cripple Creek is making rapid strides toward a new goal of prosperity that is attracting widespread attention among mining men and capitalists throughout the country. Mines are reopening; prospectors are again dotting the hillsides and the great gold camp has taken on a new lease of life.

CHINESE MURDER HAS ECHO IN PAID

Cleveland, Aug. 25.—An echo from the murder of Loo Koo, national president of the Hip Sing Tong, in New York, August 7, is how police characterized a raid by an armed gang of Chinese, who, just before daylight today drove madly through Cleveland's Chinatown, firing volley after volley of shots into Chinese stores and restaurants. The gunmen are believed to be members of the Hip Tong seeking reprisal for Loo Koo's murder. Since about ten years ago when a Tong war which cost twenty lives as ended, local Chinese have all been affiliated into the Tong. Hip Sing Tong men blame Leon Tong with the murder of Loo Koo and some attempt at reprisal had been expected.

No one was hurt last night and police today are stationed all over Chinatown to guard against a repetition of the attack.

FATALLY SHOT

Cincinnati, August 25.—William A. Hopper, 28, a picket in the Baltimore and Ohio railroad yards at Sixth street and Mill Creek, was probably fatally shot last night by a Negro employed there following a difference of opinion about the strike. Accounts of the shooting vary, other pickets saying the Negro opened fire when Hopper started to walk toward him, while others declare that Hopper seized the Negro. The latter escaped and the wounded man was taken to the hospital with a bullet in his shoulder and one in his chest.

A SEASONABLE DINNER MENU

Simple home cooking, with plenty of the vegetables and fruits in season, is one of the finest formulas for good health that could be followed. Try this dinner menu:

Baked Liver en Casserole
New Potatoes
Corn on the Cob
Home-made Bread
Beet-Cabbage Salad

Iced Coffee
Grapejuice Pudding
Baked Liver en Casserole: Cut one pound of good liver into slices one-third of an inch thick, wash, and dry. Lay three pieces in a buttered casserole in layers with the following force-meat between each layer: Two-thirds of a cup of bread crumbs mixed with one large chopped onion and seasoned with salt and pepper to taste. When the dish is full, pour one cup of water over all, and place strip of bacon on top. Bake in a slow oven for one hour.

Home-made Bread: Boil one large potato till tender, then mash it well and cover it with some of the water in which it was cooked. Now dissolve one cake of compressed yeast in a very little lukewarm water, and add this to the potato with one tablespoonful of salt. Let this mixture stand overnight, and in the morning stir into it two cups of flour, then let raise. When light (in about an hour), mix into it two and one-half or three quarts of flour, and let this raise till light, then knead well and let raise once again. Now mould the dough into five or six loaves and let raise till double in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven for one hour. To make the crusts of the loaves soft, rub their tops with a paste made of one teaspoon of flour and a little boiling water; this will also give the crust a glossy look. This recipe requires a little more trouble than most bread recipes but it is very reliable.

Beet-Cabbage Salad: Boil large beets till tender, then scoop out the interior of each one and remove the skin. Fill this cavity with a mixture of the scooped out interior and chopped uncooked cabbage; wet to a thick paste mass with Mayonnaise dressing (for any creamy bottled dressing on the market will do.) Serve topped with more dressing, each beet set in a bed of lettuce leaves. It is delicious.

Grapejuice Pudding: Put one cup of grape juice and one cup of water in the top of a double boiler (not an aluminum boiler, as that spoils the flavor of the dessert.) When the grapejuice boils, add one-half cup of sugar, 3 tablespoons of cornstarch, and a pinch of salt well mixed together, stirring until it sets. Then remove from the fire, add one teaspoon of vanilla and put into individual dishes. Let cool, then chill. If desired, top with sweetened white-of-egg mixed with a spoonful of jelly (this stiffens the egg,) or with whipped cream.

"KISS YOUR WIFE, WITH ONE ARM AROUND HER WAIST."

"Our own" Fred C. Kelly, of Xenia, has become such a noted writer that you find his articles in half the monthly magazines you pick up. And they are always interesting. The following are the opening paragraphs of one by him, entitled "How Gubbison Picks out his Salesmen," in the American Magazine for September:

"Before you leave home in the morning, kiss your wife good-by. Don't just give her a perfunctory peck on the cheek, as if it were a routine chore. Put one arm around her waist, the other around her neck, hug her tight, and give her a kiss on the lips that she will remember all the rest of the day."

The speaker, Clifford Milton Gubbison, is no authority on love-making. He was merely giving a few directions on intelligent salesmanship to a man he had just employed. "No man who kisses his wife goodby in the fashion indicated," says Gubbison, "can leave home with a grouch on. Neither does he leave his wife in ill humor. All day long he is a better salesman. Because he knows that he has something to work for. It is equally important on returning in the evening to say cheerily, 'Well, I'm back!' and kiss her again."

"Gubbison was for several years the sales manager of the Jewel Tea Company, which employed 2,600 salesmen. Each of these men drove a team and wagon, making regular trips over a route through the country selling household commodities to farmers. Their routes were scattered all over the United States. From this association Gubbison learned many odd facts about human nature, and developed original methods of selecting and instructing salesmen."

COX IS REVIEWING GERMAN SITUATION.

James M. Cox, formerly Governor of Ohio, has arrived in Berlin, after an automobile tour of virtually all Western Europe, and has interviewed Chancellor Wirth, Dr. von Helldorf and others.

Although he is not giving out interviews until his tour is completed, Mr. Cox maintains that American participation in European affairs is absolutely essential to the best interests of both Europe and America. He has just come out of Austria, and believes that country cannot endure much longer and is faced with a catastrophe. He thinks Austria's salvation lies in union with Czechoslovakia.

Mr. Cox characterized the Czech Premier, M. Benes, as "one of the greatest statesmen in Europe," and called the Czech Constitution "a remarkable document, combining democratic ideals with great practical innovations."

Both France and Germany seem to him to be in a desperate condition. Austrian agriculture does not appear as hopeless as painted, he declares.

THE "WOMEN'S VOTE."

With the holding of primaries and the looming of elections, conversation on the subject of "women's vote" grows. Yet it is probable that most women will vote as citizens and not as women, in spite of political floundering to the contrary.

A man seeking nomination as governor of one state was asked whether he intended to make any special play for the feminine vote. His reply is interesting: "Why no. Women are people. I've never discovered any particular difference between women and men, except that women have a somewhat keener sense of what they want. They're more decided in their views. I purpose to put my case before the people as a whole as completely as I can, and make an intelligent campaign. And I believe that the women will respond as readily as men."

This is the ideal attitude toward women as a voter. When a woman takes her ballot in her hand it is as a citizen, not as a member of a particular sex.

Women are fitting themselves by careful study of issues and candidates to vote intelligently. They want platforms which decent citizens can support, and when they find them they will support them.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR BIG CORN YIELD.

The Illinois Central reports prospects still favorable for a good yield of corn. Oats threshing is about completed. Fall plowing has made good headway in many sections of Iowa, and increased wheat acreage is indicated. Pastures and gardens continue in good shape. Tobacco is making good progress in Kentucky and Tennessee, with cutting started in some districts. Cotton condition is good to very good, and picking has started in some localities of Mississippi and Louisiana. Sugar cane and rice continue doing well. Many Southern pastures and gardens need rain.

Corn and cotton need rain all over the Atchison's territory, although showers fell in Southern sections last week. Cotton has been damaged in Oklahoma by boll weevil and in Southern Texas by army worm, while in Central Texas injury has been checked. Shock threshing of small grains is about completed and stack threshing is progressing. Oklahoma farmers are disposed to hold their wheat, although more is being sold than railroads can haul. Kansas farmers sell freely. Many elevators are filled and enough cars cannot be furnished to move the grain.

DO YOU KNOW?

Securities of the State of Pennsylvania have been insured for $26,000,000 against burglary. This is the largest policy of its kind ever written.

Miss Marie Ryan, one of the largest paint dealers in Brooklyn, N. Y., is the only woman member of the Paint Jobbers' Association in that city.

The annual wheat feed production in the United States amounts to 4,750,000 tons. A train 1800 miles long would be required to transport this material.

Southern Texas is rapidly becoming a big factor in the mohair industry. During the year 1921 4,000,000 pounds of domestic goods were shipped from that territory.

1902--Twenty Years Ago--1922

Xenia seems to be able to stand a couple of circuses a week and give both good patronage. The Nickel Plate circus on Saturday night had a big crowd in attendance.

A Democratic convention was held on Saturday afternoon in the assembly room of the Court House for the purpose of placing in nomination a county ticket and selecting delegates to the State convention. The delegates to the convention were selected as follows: Charles Robinson, Jamestown; Michael Murray, Yellow Springs, Stephen Powers, Bowersville and Thurman Early, Xenia.

The increasing business on the Pan Handle has made more engineers necessary and the young firemen are being given a show. Messrs. Oscar Swigart, of the Xenia yards, Billy Graham, Sam Wheeler and Fireman Donovan have gone to Cincinnati to take the examination for promotion from firemen to engineers.

Mr. W. E. Cox, the C. H. & D. agent left this morning for Sulphur Lick Springs, Ohio, where he will take an outing of a week or two.

FOR FRIVOLOUS MOMENTS

A few years ago I met a girl who failed to make a favorable impression until she wore a simple evening frock. I emphasize "simple" because rich materials and elaborate trimmings would have made her ludicrous. I recall she had pretty blue eyes, expressing candor and childish wonder. Her other features and her complexion were neither good nor bad. Her hair was wavy and somewhat drab in color. Probably she was still in her twenties, but her short plump figure was already setting at the waistline. She was visiting an aunt when we met, a woman who was never so happy as when planning a dinner party. At her informal evenings at home, the casual guest might easily assume that such an interesting group of girl friends ran into her home for a hasty call and found themselves in an amusing situation. They had always been welcome and still had no doubt of it, even when they found their hostess confused and awkward because she was trying to hide the fact that a dinner party was about due. The young men were already beginning to arrive early and Fredaline was completing a painfully perfect toilette. The girl were tactful enough to make plausible excuses for a hasty departure.

In tomorrow's Chat we will follow out Fredaline's experiences.

Tiny—Hollows and dark circles under the eyes are the result of poor health. Build yourself up with good food, fresh air and exercise.

Jane—Massaging the face with a cold cream will not do it any harm if the cream is good and pure. Most people need a cream as a cleansing agent, and people with rough dry skins are in need of a different sort of creams to nourish the skin. Cold cream by itself, however, will not cure pimples. As you weigh too much it would be well if you went on a light diet for a month. This will not only reduce you but cure the pimples and, most likely, your red nose tendency. Tomorrow—The Frivolous Frock

GOOD CREDIT.

To have good credit in your town! There is no worthier renown; to have the merchant princes say, "That delegate is splendid pay!" When you have won so high a fame you are a winner in life's game, and when you've found your last repose, from 12 to 1 the stores will close. Good credit has its drawbacks, too; I have discovered quite a few. Now, all our merchant princes know I pay up promptly as I go, and when I drift into their stores, they and their clerks are simply bores; they want to sell me all they have, from anvils down to beeswax salve. They hate to see me get away; they want to sell me bales of hay, and suits of clothes and pairs of shoes, and stovepipe hats and liquid glues. They want to show cane-seated chairs, stuffed crocodiles and pickled pears. They've just received a shipment fine of gherkins in imported brine. They grab my coat tails when I'd go, and yank and pull me to and fro to show me corn beef in a pail and tripe and prunes and shredded whale. They grab my sideboards in their haste to show me pots of rancid paste. At last, when haply I escape, my form is pulled all out of shape, my coat is split, my collar spoiled, my temper and my whiskers soiled.

HARMONY OF INTELLIGENCE
How happy for us all if we were able to make all of our differing ideas and thoughts with those about us finally meet on a harmonious plane. We could—and would—if we placed a higher value on our own intelligence. There is a refined dignity to the mind that refuses to step down into an atmosphere unworthy of its grade of intelligence. I like to think of this state of mind as one of harmony with itself and with any other mind of equal control. Intelligence implies deep and great understanding—broadness of viewpoint and vision and an ability to analyze. I walk into some offices and I immediately feel that there is harmony of intelligent labor therein. And in many groups of conversing people I have found the same thing. It is ignorance that causes friction. I remember the story of a famous writer whose critic became so irritated that he finally challenged the writer to a duel. "All right," replied the writer, "I accept your challenge and choose words for my weapons." The bitter one was so astounded that he had nothing more to say. He was out of harmony with a better mind and had the sense left to recognize it. The intelligence of people does not have to be equal in order to work in cooperative fashion. The little piccolo in a great orchestra would get the immediate attention of the master leader should it for a moment get out of tune. The spiritually minded man is he whose thoughts melt evenly and happily into those of the infinite God, whose thoughts permeate every beautiful thing in life and nature. So that our most important task is to use our intelligence for complete harmony, that our finished works may reflect our best self right out in full light. And it's so much worth while.

CITY COMMISSION TABLES ORDINANCE FOR IMPROVEMENTS

For the second time in as many meetings, the ordinance providing sanitary sewer and city water connections along streets in the first addition of the Dods track, in accordance with the desires expressed by lot-owners in a petition to the City Commission sometime ago, that body again tabled the ordinance Thursday night.

That hesitancy in finally acting on the ordinance is not due to a policy against its provisions was indicated by the expressed sentiment of members of the commission Thursday night. The commission, however, is anxious to have a better understanding of the possible outlay of the city, and to learn the sentiment of the few lot owners who did not sign the petition. For that reason City Manager S. O. Hale was instructed to discover the reason why some lot owners in the tract did not sign the petition asking for improvements.

The ordinance providing for the work was read for the second time at the last regular meeting of the commission and tabled because of the absence of President H. L. Smith and Mayor M. J. Hartley from the commission meeting. Commissioners Thursday night said they were anxious that the improvements be carried out and that they believed the improvements would be a stimulation to building in the tract. They expressed the belief that all lots will stand the assessment. City Manager Hale pointed out to the commission that if building in the section followed, that the city would be repaid in the increased taxes due from the increase in valuation, even though it should be necessary to spend some money above assessments for the improvements.

The petition asking for the installation of city water and sanitary sewers in the middle of the street contains the names of more than 75 percent of the property holders. Other lot owners could not be reached and one or two refused to sign the petition.

USES UMBRELLA TO STAB RIVAL

Using an umbrella as a weapon in an argument over a girl, Herman Harrop, 29, of 214 Bainbridge Street, Dayton, is said to have stabbed Willard Motzell, 508 Wayne avenue, early Friday morning, the point of the umbrella piercing a lung.

Motzell is in Miami Valley hospital in a critical condition and Harrop is being held by police pending investigation. He denies attacking his rival with an umbrella. The fight started when Motzell took Miss Katherine Miller home. Harrop, who claims to be the girl's steady, was waiting for them and became incensed when he heard them make a date for Saturday night.

Rails were greased and wires cut and the town was plunged in darkness most of the night.

FAME IS FICKLE EVEN TO A BANDIT AS SHOWN IN CASE OF JESSE JAMES

St. Joseph, Mo. Aug. 25.—Fame is fickle even to a bandit. Nor does the fact that he may have risen to the highest pinnacle in banditry's Hall of Fame save him from inevitable oblivion in popular interest.

At least no historical society has yet come forward to save the house, in which Jesse James, king of "bad men," met death at the hands of his betrayer, Bob Ford, on April 3, 1882. For years the old house at No. 1318 Lafayette street was annually visited by hundreds of curious visitors, who stood with eyes and mouth open in wonder as the eloquent caretaker pointed to the hole in the east wall where the bullet from Ford's gun imbedded itself after snuffing out the life of the notorious outlaw.

Once Point of Interest

There was a time, and it has not been such a great while ago either, when everyone who had read "The James Boys in Missouri" and "Cap Collier" in their youth, wanted to see the Jesse James house when they came to St. Joseph. To go back and tell the folks they had not seen the old landmark would have been as much of a disgrace as to have gone to Philadelphia on a "rubber necking" trip without looking at Independence Hall.

One was always sure of getting a vivid account of the killing from the old caretaker, who would even admit, if pressed long enough that he had witnessed the affair. After a harangue about the details of the shooting the visitors were shown the old, rusty Colt's horse pistols James had laid on the table while he stepped on a chair to hang a picture for Ford's wife.

Then followed the old yellowed newspapers, which recounted the story of the shooting, several giving anecdotes showing the better side of the famous bank robber. After that the usual procedure was to sell the now enchanted visitor a few curls, a piece of plaster from around the bullet hole, a piece of the picture frame, a rung of the chair, or some other bit of doubtful value, at a comparatively fancy price. If the lamb appeared particularly unshorn he was offered one of the pistols at an exorbitant figure, and the gag occasionally worked.

The task of figuring how many rungs have been sold from the chair, besides the other "original" curios sold again and again, offers a fine job to some bright young statistician. And yet the "original" chair is still there!

The room in the front part of the house is still kept for visitors. An old plush sofa stands against the east wall, right under the picture which was being hung by James when he was shot down by his old comrade. In the center of the room is an old-fashioned centre-table on which rests a pink-globed kerosene lamp, and beside the lamp lay the two guns placed there by the bandit when he entered the house.

The house, an old frame building, set among the trees on the top of a bank, still looks just as one would expect a bandit king's home to look. A few hundred yards to the south high bluffs loom, while all around the house the unpaved, little-traveled streets seem to recall the old stage-coach routes. There are but one or two houses in plain view of the cottage, and these are far enough away to bear out the idea of seclusion.

Few Visitors Now

But there are few visitors to the old Jesse James landmark now. The house has not been painted since the bandit was killed. Boards, bare and rotting, window lights out and a crumbling foundation are the only outward sign of a landmark that once lured its thousands. The few who do occasionally seek out the old place are no longer curious, take little interest in the relics still offered for sale and generally leave with a disappointed "Humph!"

Two years ago there was an agitation for preserving the old house for its historical value, but when the question came before the Buchanan County Historical Society that august body believing the city had already had enough notoriety from Jesse James residence here flatly refused to take any action to save the ancient landmark on the grounds that the famous gunman was of no particular benefit to the reputation of the city or the State.

And thus is perishing one of Missouri's most famous landmarks. So, with Buffalo Bill and Cap Collier gone beyond the great divide, with the roundup being supervised now by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and with Pony Express stables given over to a foundry one might well say: "Sic semper gloriae."

After an illness of several months, Mrs. Elva Marshall, wife of Charles Marshall, 23, of Bellbrook Avenue, died at the District Tubercular Hospital at Springfield Thursday evening at five o'clock. Death was the result of lung trouble from which Mrs. Marshall had suffered since last winter.

The body was brought to this city Friday morning, and taken to the late home on Bellbrook Avenue. Mrs. Marshall was born in Wilmington, where she resided until her marriage. Besides her husband, she leaves two children, Harold Espey and Ralph Earl; her father Harry Carter of Wilmington, and four sisters, Donalds, of Xenia, Helen of Maryland, Sylvia, of Columbus, and Mrs. Anna Painter of this city.

GOLDEN HAIR IS AGAIN HANGING DOWN HER BACK

London, Aug. 25.—"Her golden hair was hanging down her back," by order of the British Government.

In other words the British maid under the age of sixteen is now threatened with compulsory flapperdom.

In Great Britain, it must be remembered that a flapper is a young person who wears her hair in a Marquise plait. There is a measure now before the British House of Commons which is going to make it a punishable offense if any girl under the age of sixteen wanders abroad without her hair flowing down her back.

The babbed-haired damsels are in a quandary. The great legal question of the moment is the settlement of the point as to the category under which bobbed hair comes. Is it up or down? If the measure is passed the great question can only be settled by the learned and mighty Law Lords in the House of Lords.

The measure which is at present before Parliament is designed to make it a criminal offense for a man to misconduct himself with a girl under the age of sixteen whether it is with her consent or not. The defense that the man had reason to believe she was over sixteen will, if this bill becomes law, no longer hold good.

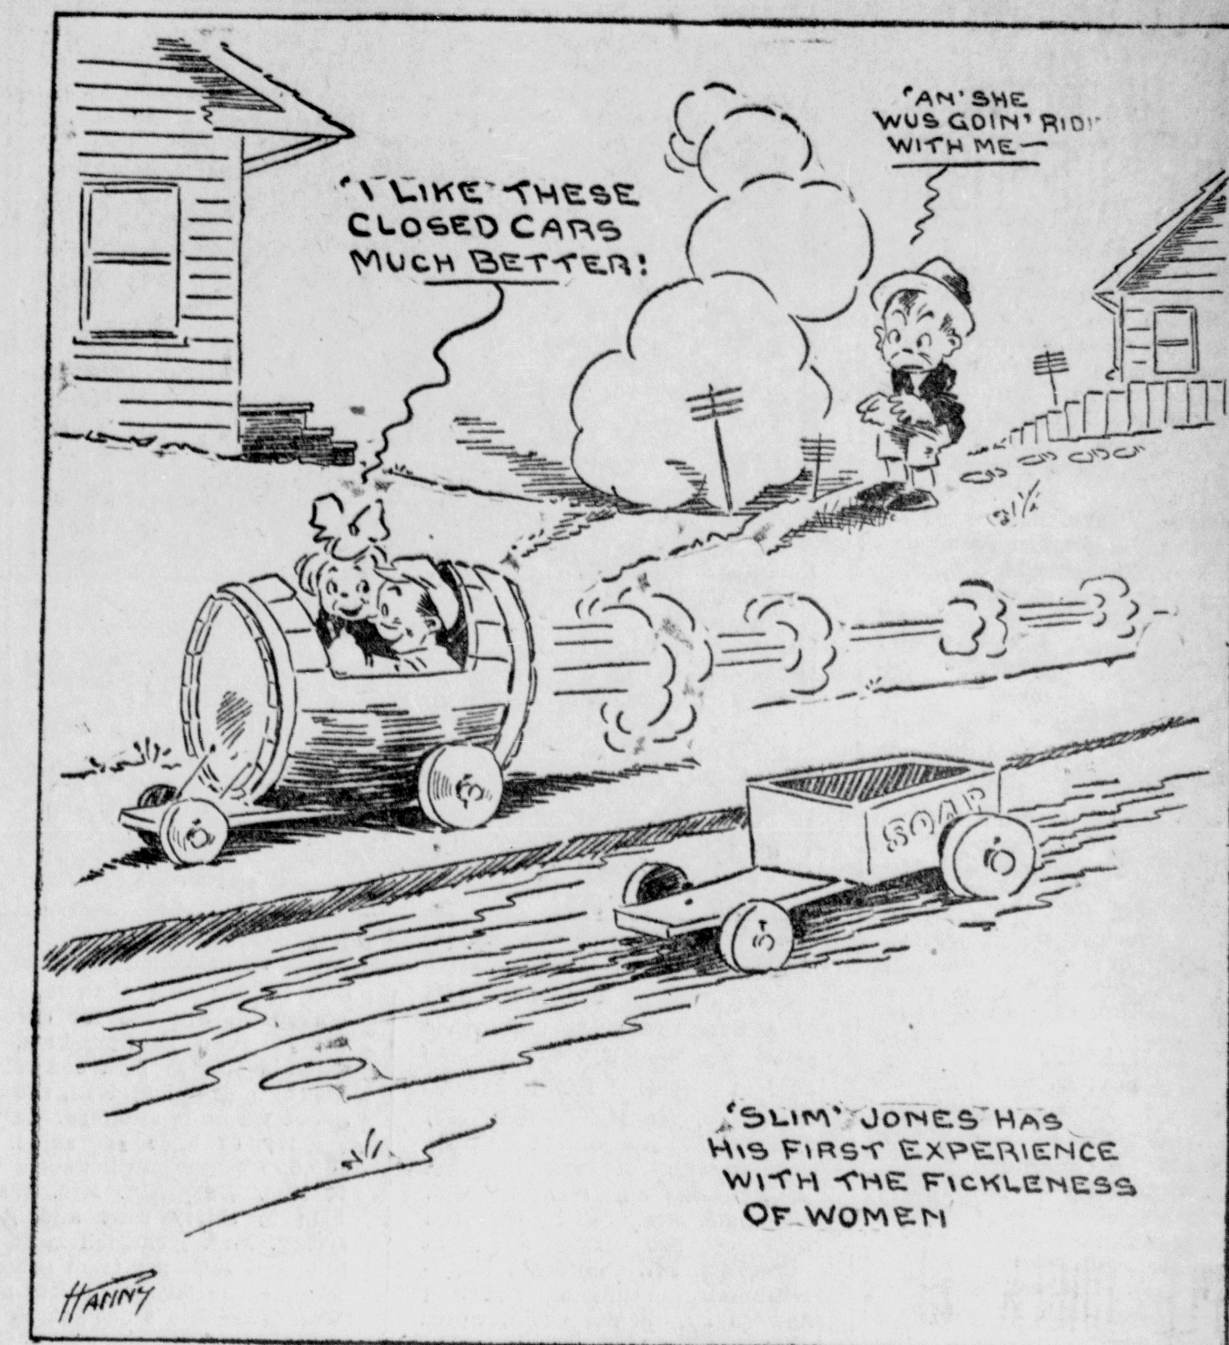

In order to protect British mankind from the blackmailing minx who ages herself with coiffeur juggling, Mr. F. A. Macquisten, M. P., a well-known Scottish lawyer, has given notice to an amendment to the effect:

Every female of the age of sixteen years or under shall wear her hair either loose or plaited and hanging down the back, and any such female who is sixteen or under that age who shall wear her hair up shall be liable to the penalties of this act, and upon a third conviction shall be confined to a Borstal Institution until she reaches the age of sixteen.

The original act is sponsored by Lady Astor and Mrs. Wintingham, the only two lady members of Parliament.

FARMER MURDERED BY CHICKEN THIEVES

Celina, August 24.—A victim of his own gun, Edward H. Moyer, 60, farmer residing near Rockford, was found murdered near his home Wednesday night, after an attempt to route chicken thieves.

Aroused by the depredations of thieves on his hen roost, Moyer had slept in a barn several nights to catch the marauders. He is believed to have fired one shot at a band of thieves Wednesday night and then given chase to them down a lane.

It is believed the thieves ambushed the farmer, took his gun from him and then shot him. The thieves abandoned a quantity of beef and lard stolen from a smokehouse.

CHARGES ARE BRANDED BY WHEELER AS "FOOLISH"

Washington, Aug. 25.—False, flimsy and foolish was the description applied by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the anti-saloon league today to the charges of representative Tinkham, Republican of Massachusetts, that the league had poured money into the seventh Minnesota district to elect representative A. V. Volstead, father of the dry law. Wheeler charged Tinkham with stabbing the 18th amendment in the back by advocating light wines and beer.

ADVOCATES OF FOREIGN VALUATION CONFIDENT

Washington, Aug. 25.—Exponents of the foreign valuation plan of tariff taxation were confident of victory today as senate and house conferees resumed their "harmony" conference on the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill. A majority of the conferees, it was learned, favored the foreign plan as opposed to the American valuation plan.

Styles BY LENORE

In this simple frock of dark blue crepe morocain the side line is effectively emphasized by gilt braid buttons and square loops of gilt and red braid. These square loops, by the way, are an exceedingly individual and decorative touch. The neck, too, is outlined with a border of the red and gold, and if further evidence is required of the distinctive character of this frock, regard the novel belt, which is of red kid, slashed into half-inch fringe on both sides.

Another attractive frock created in the same shop where the pictured one was sketched, and of the same "slinky" type so much liked by well-dressed young woman, was also made of dark blue crepe, all flat about the hips, with a slightly lowered belt of pleated Georgette, from which suspended at the side two very narrow panels of the pleating. The sleeves were full length and tight, finished with mousquetaire cuffs of white organdie edged with a triple row of self-cording, the same idea completing the collar, which was bateau shaped. A navy blue hat with upturned brim in white corded Georgette was posed with this frock.

OGLESBEE-ANDERSON WEDDING SOLEMNIZED

Quite the most brilliant of weddings solemnized in this vicinity recently was that of Miss Helen Pauline Oglesbee, daughter of Mrs. Nancy Oglesbee, of Cedarville, and Mr. William Wallace Anderson, prominent young farmer of the county, which took place at the Oglesbee home on Xenia Avenue, Cedarville, Thursday evening at six-thirty o'clock.

Over one hundred bidden guests witnessed the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. J. P. White, of the United Presbyterian Church of Cedarville, the bride's pastor, assisted by the Rev. Charles P. Proudfoot, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church of this city, the bridegroom's pastor.

Green and white predominated in the decorations of the rooms of the Oglesbee home for the occasion, white clematis combined with green fern being used in attractive profusion.

The marriage bans were solemnized in the living room, where two tall white standards, bearing baskets of white roses, placed on each side of a lattice intertwined with clematis formed the handsome bow for the ceremony.

At the appointed hour, the officiating clergyman, the Rev. Dr. White, with Dr. Proudfoot, in company with the bridegroom, and his best man, Mr. Kraer Ferguson of Washington, Pa., entered and took their places to the left of the altar.

The bride came down the stairway with her attendants, led by Master Irvin Marshall, son of Judge and Mrs. J. Carl Marshall of this city, as ring bearer, who was dressed in white. Next came little Miss Jane Finney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Finney of Xenia, a dainty figure dressed in white, as flower girl, who strewed rose petals from a basket in the path of the bride.

Miss Dorothy Oglesbee, sister of the bride, as maid of honor walked next, wearing a handsome gown of green crepe de chine, and carrying a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, caught with a bow of tulle.

The bride, who entered next, was a charming picture in her bridal gown of white satin crepe, with an over dress of Chantilly lace. Her veil of tulle was caught with a band about her head, falling to the floor, forming a train. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of brides' roses, with a huge bow of tulle.

Preceding the ceremony and before the entrance of the bride party, Mrs. James Hawkins of this city, sang for the assembled guests, "I Love You Truly," and "O Promise Me."

She was accompanied by Miss Martha Anderson, sister of the bridegroom, who blended from the selections into the wedding march from Lohengrin.

The impressive double ring ceremony was performed in uniting the couple.

Immediately following the wedding service the guests were ushered to the dining room, where a three-course dinner was served.

The bride's table, a prominent feature, was prettily appointed, with decorations of green and white. Green ribbon, with white tulle combined to form a canopy leading from the corners of the table to the chandelier, the centerpiece of the table being formed by hug bouquet of white roses placed on a mirror tray. Place cards at each cover and dainty mint containers carried out the green and white color scheme.

Covers were laid at the bride's table for Mr. and Mrs. William Wallace Anderson, Miss Dorothy Oglesbee, Mr. Kraer Ferguson, of Washington, Pa., Miss Martha Anderson, the Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Chestnut, of Covington, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. James Hawkins of Xenia; Mrs. Mary Bird, Miss Mary Chestnut, of Cedarville, Miss Edna Ehlerding, of Norwood, O., Dr. E. H. Hubner, of Cedarville, and Mr. William Milligan, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

The other guests were seated at small tables arranged throughout the rooms, centered with sprays of white clematis.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left Thursday night on their honeymoon, which they will spend in the mountains of Virginia. Mrs. Anderson's traveling outfit was a suit of brown with hat and shoes to match.

Upon their return they will reside on the Anderson farm, of the Jamestown, pike. Mrs. Anderson is a prominent girl of the vicinity and is a graduate of Cedarville High School, with the class of 1914 and of Cedarville College, with the class of 1918.

Many prenuptial parties have been given in this city and Cedarville, in honor of approaching marriages.

Her father was the late Dr. E. C. Oglesbee, prominent Cedarville physician. She is an accomplished musician and popular in a large circle of friends.

Mr. Anderson is a well known young Greene County farmer, being actively connected with farm interests. He is the son of the late Representative S. C. Anderson and is a former student of Cedarville College.

Among the out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were the following: Mrs. O. H. Milligan and son William, of Avalon, Pa.; the Misses Clara and Edna Ehlerding, of Norwood, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Starrett, Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Pollock, Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. William Collins West Liberty, Mr. and Mrs. Dean, Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Oglesbee, Wilmington, Mrs. Susan Peterson, Wilmington, the Rev. and Mrs. James H. Chestnut, Covington, Ohio, Miss Ruth Carnes, Baltimore, Md., and the Rev. and Mrs. C. P. Proudfoot, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. John Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bryson, and two children, Martha and Jane, Mr. and Mrs. J. Earl McClellan, and Mrs. J. Carl Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Finney, Mrs. Arch Anderson and son James; Mr. and Mrs. William H. McGervey, Mr. and Mrs. James Hawkins, Mrs. D. S. Ervin and daughter, Miss Mary Ervin, all of Xenia, and Mr. Kraer Ferguson, of Washington, Pa.

HUNGRY FEELS GRATEFUL TO U. S.

New York August 25.—Hungary is grateful to the United States for its aid, says Captain A. G. Pedlow, for two and one half years commissioner to Hungary of the American Red Cross, who has returned from Budapest via England on the Cunarder Laconia. Friends who were with him said that when Captain Pedlow left Budapest 30,000 children assembled to bid him good-by.

"With the closing of the American Red Cross work in Hungary on July 1," said Captain Pedlow "thousands of the former wealthy and the professional classes there are in dire need. With the present price of the dollar ranging from 1,500 to 1,600 kronen and the high price of food, the class which depends upon an income for its living is in a poverty stricken condition."

"A number of autopsies held recently in Budapest," he continued, "determined the cause of death among the professional classes the verdict of the medical men was that it was due to starvation."

"The Hungarians realize what the United States has done for them in relief work and feeding the children and have a very friendly feeling toward this country. Fifty per cent of the hospitals and orphanages would have been kept closed this year if it

With regard to political conditions Captain Pedlow said that Hungary was quiet under the provisional Government, but the people were in favor of the monarchical form of government.

WINTER'S COLD IS HELD TO BLAME FOR ICE FREAK

Ithaca, N. Y., August 25.—Winter's cold and not summer's heat is responsible for the freak ice mine at Coudersport, a mine which may be a survival of Ice Age, declares Professor O. D. von Engelen, of the geology department, Cornell University, in announcing the result of an extensive investigation of Nature's own refrigerator.

A variety of explanations of the cause of the phenomenon have been suggested, no one of which is completely adequate, but of which all of the "rational" ones are in agreement on one point, which is that Winter cold and not Summer heat is responsible for the development of the "ice" said Dr. von Engelen. "The difficulties are encountered in attempting to explain how the Winter cold functions."

"As the ice mine is situated at an altitude of about 1,750 A. T. on the side of a long range of hills, which at the most rise only 300 to 400 feet higher at their summit levels, this precludes any possibility of the mine opening being fed by air from mountains, snow-and-ice mantled, the year round."

ONE EXPLANATION.
"Cold air is heavier than warm air. What seems to happen is this: During the Winter cold air over the hill tops sinks into the pores and crevices of rock formations and slowly expels the warm air which had penetrated there during the preceding Summer. Ordinarily this process of interchange, elsewhere, takes place locally, that is, over each little area of surface independently."

"But at Coudersport the joining up of rock crevices and passages seems to be so arranged that the air circulation of a wide region is focused on one spot, the area of the ice mine. At that point all the accumulation of warm air in Summer is slowly forced out from September on, melting the ice."

"During the Winter the heavier cold air completes the process by adding its extra weight. In Summer the mass of rocks filled with cold air is analogous to a reservoir filled with water. The opening, low, on the slope of the hills, is a vent through which the air can escape under pressure."

"At that time the air temperatures both in the valleys and on the hilltops are about the same; accordingly the cold air, confined by the rocks, as the water in the tanks, emerges at the low outlet and pushes up, displacing the lighter warm air above the vent. Of course as the tank is emptied above just as light air fills in the space made vacant when water is withdrawn from a tank."

FREAK TEMPERATURE.
"To freeze water the temperature of cold air which emerges must be below 32 degrees F. This is possible, for the air temperatures of winter at Coudersport are commonly much below the freezing point. But to offset that is the fact that the earth almost universally maintains a uniform temperature the year round only a few feet below the surface of the ground."

"The air temperatures in the Mammoth Cave remain the same the year around. Accordingly, there must be at Coudersport some set of conditions which cuts off the interior earth heat, or renders this ineffective at that locality, if Winter cold, only, is held to explain the freak."

"Again, the water which is frozen by escaping cold air which water percolates through the rocks themselves as does the air. Why then does the water not either freeze before emergence, or indeed seal up the rock crevices so the cold air cannot get in? Possibly the water is only scantily supplied from a source quite close to the opening and does not have an opportunity to become cooled off enough to freeze until it emerges."

Mrs. Edith Spreckels Wakefield.

Mrs. Rodney Kendrick, wife of a San Francisco newspaper artist, has filed suit for $25,000 against Mrs. Edith Huntington Spreckels Wakefield, charging alienation of affection in one of the queerest love snarls on record. Mrs. Wakefield first and divorced wife of the late John D. Spreckels, Jr., California multimillionaire, though married now to Frank Wakefield, whom she is suing for divorce, went to Mrs. Kendrick and offered her $100 a month for life if she would divorce Kendrick and permit him to become her third husband. All three admit the offer. Mrs. Kendrick, in addition to her suit against Mrs.

Wakefield, will sue for divorce, while John D. Spreckels, Sr. will file suit to gain control of his three grandchildren, the oldest of whom is nineteen. He will also try to have set aside the $80,000 bequest in his son's will to Mrs. Wakefield. Mrs. Wakefield is thirty nine and good looking. Mrs. Kendrick is twenty four and suffering from tuberculosis. Kendrick is thirty-nine. Mrs. Wakefield must not be confused with Mrs. John D. Spreckels, Jr., second wife of the millionaire, who was Miss Sidi Wirt. Mrs. Wakefield is a grandniece of the late Collis P. Huntington, from whom she inherited millions.

"Unoffending Russians were arrested in Persia on charges of suspicion of being Bolsheviks. There was no Parliament or political parties or contemplated elections.

BLIND BOY WINS SCHOLASTIC HONOR AT UNIVERSITY

Honolulu, Aug. 25.—Scholastic leadership at the University of Hawaii

for the college year which was just closed goes to a blind boy Henry Bindt, a third year student in the college of arts and sciences.

Besides attaining an average grade of 93 in all his subjects during the year, thus leading the entire student body in scholarship Bindt took an active part in college activities, being elected president of the student body for the ensuing year, president of the literary club, and president of his class. He was also one of the few students to be chosen as charter members of the newly organized student honor society.

Bindt does his studying by the aid of readers and a dictaphone, using also text books printed in the American Braille system of raised letter writing. He takes no lecture notes, depending entirely on his memory, which his instructors say is remarkably developed.

The honor system was adopted at the University of Hawaii during the last year largely as a result of Bindt's efforts in lecturing to students and faculty on the advantages of the system. The blind boy received his early schooling in the California School for the Blind at Berkeley, California.

IMPROVEMENTS ARE NOW UNDER WAY AT REGIL HOTEL

Extensive repairs now being undertaken on the Regil Hotel, Main and Whiteman streets, are expected to greatly improve the accommodations and comfort of that hostelry.

Plumbers are now at work on the hotel, installing hot and cold running water in every room, an improvement which was promised when E. L. Liger, present landlord, took over the lease some time ago, but which had never been carried out.

The running water improvement is expected to greatly increase the popularity of the hostelry, and will move the hotel out of the "bowl and pitcher" class it has occupied since its erection. The new fixtures will be of the latest type and each stationery washstand will be cut down from the rest of the room.

In connection with the installation of running water, in every room, 12 new private bath rooms are being added to the hotel facilities, abandoned closets and unused space being utilized to add this provision of comfort without cutting down the room capacity of the hostelry.

Manager Liger has increased the size and enhanced the appearance of the lobby, by utilizing the space formerly used as a private dining room, tearing out the partition in the rear of the desk and moving the desk back, thus creating a greater lobby space which has been redecorated and which will be furnished to compare with the present lobby.

CRIPPLE CREEK IS AGAIN COMING INTO ITS OWN

Cripple Creek, Colo. Aug. 25.—The Cripple Creek Camp once the greatest gold camp in the world is coming into its own again, after a period of comparative inactivity since 1918, with the reopening of many old workings and the discovery of new veins of rich ore.

Rich "surface" strikes, recently made in the camp, are drawing scores of prospectors to the camp and with new machinery being installed in numerous underground mines, Cripple Creek is again a "come back" as a gold producing center.

Finding rich gold ore at grass roots at the same time that new veins were discovered at a depth of more than 2,500 feet below the earth's surface is one of the "freak" developments of the new prosperity in the camp.

"STUMBLES" ON GOLD
Sol Cain, one of the pioneer prospectors of Cripple Creek, literally "stumbled his toe" on a body of ore of great extent and value, less than a dozen feet below the surface, at a point over which countless feet have trodden for thirty years—since the precious yellow metal was first located in the shadow of Pike's Peak here.

Cain is taking ore from his shallow mine valued as high as $300 of gold to the ton and has a real gold mine in the making.

Other important strikes have been made recently at or near the surface, and mining men are declaring that the day of the "grass-root mine" has returned.

The famous Portland Mine, from which millions of dollars' worth of ore have been taken in the past, has located an immense body of ore at a depth of 2,600 feet, the lowest producing level in the State of Colorado, and ore is being taken from this new vein which has settled for as high as $10,000 to the ton at the mill.

ALL PRODUCING AGAIN
Practically every active mine in the Cripple Creek field is producing gold ore running two, three and four ounces or better to the ton—at a time when one-ounce gold is considered profitable production.

From the early nineties when gold was first discovered in the Cripple Creek region, until America's entry in the World War, the fame of this camp spread until Cripple Creek was a name to conjure with among mining men throughout the entire world.

Huge fortunes had been extracted from the nearby hills, but "war" prices for powder, steel, coal, labor and everything else used in wrestling the yellow dust from mother earth made

FIFTEEN YEAR OLD MUSICIAN WHO SUFFERED BROKEN BACK IN BOAT DISASTER WANT TO VISIT WHITE HOUSE

Cincinnati, August 25.—Husky and sunburned from three weeks spent in the open air at his home in Manchester, Ohio 15-year-old Wilbur Morgan, whose back was broken in a steamer gold mining highly unprofitable with the price of gold standing still at $20.67 per ounce.

As a consequence many mines here were forced to close; miners drifted away to other employments and the "greatest gold camp in the world" took on a look of desolation.

With better mining conditions now prevailing and fabulous finds being made on every side in old and new properties, the faith of those who stuck to the camp through the dark days of depression and decline is being vindicated and today Cripple Creek is making rapid strides toward a new goal of prosperity that is attracting widespread attention among mining men and capitalists throughout the country. Mines are reopening; prospectors are again dotting the hillsides and the great gold camp has taken on a new lease of life.

CHINESE MURDER HAS ECHO IN PAID

Cleveland, Aug. 25.—An echo from the murder of Loo Koo, national president of the Hip Sing Tong, in New York, August 7, is how police characterized a raid by an armed gang of Chinese, who, just before daylight today drove madly through Cleveland's Chinatown, firing volley after volley of shots into Chinese stores and restaurants. The gunmen are believed to be members of the Hip Tong seeking reprisal for Loo Koo's murder. Since about ten years ago when a Tong war which cost twenty lives ended, local Chinese have all been affiliated with the Hip Sing Tong men blame Loo Koo with the murder of Loo Koo and some attempt at reprisal had been expected.

No one was hurt last night and police today are stationed all over Chinatown to guard against a repetition of the attack.

DR. OTTO P. JUETTNER, NOTED CINCINNATI PHYSICIAN DIES

Cincinnati, August 25.—Dr. Otto P. Juettner, 57, noted physician and author, died at his home in this city this morning following a lingering illness. He retired from active practice several years ago on account of failing health and had been confined to his home for some time prior to his death. Dr. Juettner was born in Germany and received his primary education there, but came to this country for his college work. His widow is the only relative surviving.

FATALLY SHOT

Cincinnati, August 25.—William A. Hopper, 28, a picket in the Baltimore and Ohio railroad yards at Sixth street and Mill Creek, was probably fatally shot last night by a Negro employed there following a difference of opinion about the strike. Accounts of the shooting vary, other pickets saying the Negro opened fire when Hopper started to walk toward him, while others declare that Hopper seized the Negro. The latter escaped and the wounded man was taken to the hospital with a bullet in his shoulder and one in his chest.

Island Queen wreck on April 27 during President Harding's visit to Cincinnati, is in this city today seeking permission of the doctors who pulled him through in his fight for life to accept Mrs. Harding's invitation to visit her at the White House.

He is a very different youngster from the pale and listless invalid who languished between life and death for weeks at Christ hospital until the tide turned in his favor after the receipt of a letter from Mrs. Harding, telling him how sorry the first lady of the land was for the brave little musician who had been injured while playing on the day that the president and his party were here.

"I want you to hurry and get out of the hospital," the letter said, "so you can come to visit me in Washington," and since that time Wilbur has never forgotten. He received a second letter supplementing Mrs. Harding's and containing joint invitation from her and Mrs. C. C. Stearns, wife of Congressman Stearns to be their guest at the capital. And now, with only a light cane to show that he ever was crippled, the boy musician strolls about the streets awaiting the verdict of the doctors.

"If they'll only let me go with the Manchester band to the State Fair at Columbus next week," he says wistfully, "I know they'll let me visit the White House afterward."

PAVING OF NORTH DETROIT STREET IS ASSURED THURSDAY

An ordinance providing the improvement of North Detroit street from the Ankeney Mill road (Fairgrounds Avenue) to the north corporation, was passed at the regular meeting of the City Commission Thursday night.

The improvements are to consist of paving, sewers and cement curb and gutters. The Springfield and Xenia Traction company has consented to the removal of its tracks from the east side of the street to the middle of the street in anticipation of the paving.

A petition presented by property owners not included in this district, and asking that the traction tracks be moved to the middle of the street all the way along was tabled. A petition signed by property holders on North West street and asking that the telephone companies and the Dayton Power & Light company be required to move poles from the front of the properties to the alley in the rear, is being investigated by City Manager S. O. Hale.

An abstract of the vote on daylight saving at the primary, was read to the commission by City Auditor T. H. Zell.

A SEASONABLE DINNER MENU

Simple home cooking, with plenty of the vegetables and fruits in season, is one of the finest formulas for good health that could be followed. Try this dinner menu:

Baked Liver on Casserole
New Potatoes
Corn on the Cob
Home-made Bread
Beet-Cabbage Salad

Iced Coffee
Grapejuice Pudding
Baked Liver on Casserole: Cut one pound of good liver into slices one-third of an inch thick, wash, and dry. Lay these pieces in a buttered casserole in layers with the following force-meat between each layer: Two-thirds of a cup of bread crumbs mixed with one large chopped onion and seasoned with salt and pepper to taste. When the dish is full, pour one cup of water over all, and place strip of bacon on top. Bake in a slow oven for one hour.

Home-made Bread: Boil one large potato till tender, then mash it well and cover it with some of the water in which it was cooked. Now dissolve one cake of compressed yeast in a very little lukewarm water, and add this to the potato with one tablespoonful of salt and one-half teaspoonful of sugar. Let this mixture stand overnight, and in the morning stir into it two cups of flour, then let raise. When light (in about an hour), mix into it two and one-half or three quarts of flour, and let this raise till light, then knead well and let raise once again. Now mould the dough in to five or six loaves and let raise till double in bulk. Bake in a moderate oven for one hour. To make the crusts of the loaves soft, rub their tops with a paste made of one teaspoon of flour and a little boiling water; this will also give the crust a glossy look. This recipe requires a little more trouble than most bread recipes but it is very reliable.

Beet-Cabbage Salad: Boil large beets till tender, then scoop out the interior of each one and remove the skin. Fill this cavity with a mixture of the scooped out interior and chopped uncooked cabbage; wet to a thick paste with Mayonnaise dressing (or any creamy bottled dressing on the market will do.) Serve topped with more dressing, each beet set in a bed of lettuce leaves. It is delicious.

Grapejuice Pudding: Put one cup of grape juice and one cup of water in the top of a double boiler (not an aluminum boiler, as that spoils the flavor of the dessert.) When the grapejuice boils, add one-half cup of sugar, 3 tablespoons of cornstarch, and a pinch of salt well mixed together, stirring until it sets. Then remove from the fire, add one teaspoon of vanilla and put into individual dishes. Let cool, then chill. If desired, top with sweetened white-of-egg mixed with a spoonful of jelly (this stiffens the egg,) or with whipped cream.

CITY COMMISSION TABLES ORDINANCE FOR IMPROVEMENTS

For the second time in as many meetings, the ordinance providing sanitary sewer and city water connections along streets in the first addition of the Dadds track, in accordance with the desires expressed by lot-owners in a petition to the City Commission sometime ago, that body again tabled the ordinance Thursday night.

That hesitancy in finally acting on the ordinance is not due to a policy against its provisions was indicated by the expressed sentiment of members of the commission Thursday night. The commission, however, is anxious to have a better understanding of the possible outlay of the city, and to learn the sentiment of the few lot owners who did not sign the petition. For that reason City Manager S. O. Hale, was instructed to discover the reason why some lot owners in the tract did not sign the petition asking for improvements.

The ordinance providing for the work was read for the second time at the last regular meeting of the commission and tabled because of the absence of President H. L. Smith and Mayor M. J. Hartley from the commission meeting. Commissioners Thursday night, said they were anxious that the improvements be carried out and that they believed the improvements would be a stimulation to building in the tract. They expressed the belief that all lots will stand the assessment. City Manager Hale pointed out to the commission that if building in the section followed, that the city would be repaid in the increased taxes due from the increase in valuation, even though it should be necessary to spend some money above assessments for the improvements.

The petition asking for the installation of city water and sanitary sewers in the middle of the street contains the names of more than 75 percent of the property holders. Other lot owners could not be reached and one or two refused to sign the petition.

USES UMBRELLA TO STAB RIVAL

Using an umbrella as a weapon in an argument over a girl, Herman Harrop, 29, of 214 Bainbridge Street, Dayton, is said to have stabbed Willard Motz, 508 Wayne avenue, early Friday morning, the point of the umbrella piercing a lung.

Motz is in Miami Valley hospital in a critical condition and Harrop is being held by police pending investigation. He denies attacking his rival with an umbrella. The fight started when Motz took Miss Katherine Miller home, Harrop, who claims to be the girl's steady, was waiting for them and became incensed when he heard them make a date for Saturday night.

BOMB EXPLOSIONS SHAKE ILLINOIS COUNTRY SIDE

Chicago, August 25.—Two bomb explosions which shook the country-side climaxed a night of terror in Woodhouse, Ill., according to reports received by the Chicago and Alton railroad today. The bombs were exploded near the railroad roundhouse and near a hotel housing shopworkers early this morning but did little damage. No one was injured. Rails were greased and wires cut and the town was plunged in darkness most of the night.

HOUSES ARE UNROOFED BY STORM IN CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, August 25.—Several houses were unroofed and street of city were flooded during a wind and rain storm which visited Cincinnati late last night drenching thousands who were caught down town unsuspecting and umbrellaless. Several wrecks were reported, but no injuries resulted from the storm.

LARGE SECTION OF CALAIS DOCKS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Calais, France, Aug. 25.—A large section of the Calais docks and warehouses—among the biggest on the English channel—were destroyed by fire today. An entire regiment of infantry was ordered out to assist the firemen. Great quantities of British army supplies were lost and for a time the blaze threatened to ignite 10,000 gallons of army rum.

FAME IS FICKLE EVEN TO A BANDIT AS SHOWN IN CASE OF JESSE JAMES

St. Joseph, Mo. Aug. 25.—Fame is fickle even to a bandit.

Nor does the fact that he may have risen to the highest pinnacle in banditry's Hall of Fame save him from inevitable oblivion in popular interest.

At least no historical society has yet come forward to save the house, in which Jesse James, king of "bad men," met death at the hands of his betrayer, Bob Ford, on April 3, 1882.

For years the old house at No. 1318 Lafayette street was annually visited by hundreds of curious visitors, who stood with eyes and mouth open in wonder as the eloquent caretaker pointed to the hole in the east wall where the bullet from Ford's gun imbedded itself after snuffing out the life of the notorious outlaw.

Once Point of Interest

There was a time, and it has not been such a great while ago either, when everyone who had read "The James Boys in Missouri" and "Cap Collier" in their youth, wanted to see the Jesse James house when they came to St. Joseph. To go back and tell the folks they had not seen the old landmark would have been as much of a disgrace as to have gone to Philadelphia on a "rubber necking" trip without looking at Independence Hall.

One was always sure of getting a vivid account of the killing from the old caretaker, who would even admit, if pressed long enough that he had witnessed the affair. After a harangue about the details of the shooting the visitors were shown the old, rusty Colt's horse pistols James had laid on the table while he stepped on a chair to hang a picture for Ford's wife.

Then followed the old, yellowed newspaper, which recounted the story of the shooting, several giving anecdotes showing the better side of the famous bank robber. After that the usual procedure was to sell the now enchanted visitor a few curios, a piece of plaster from around the bullet hole, a piece of the picture frame, a rung of the chair, or some other bit of doubtful value, at a comparatively fancy price. If the lamb appeared particularly unshorn he was offered one of the pistols at an exorbitant figure, and the gag occasionally worked.

Inexhaustible Relics
The task of figuring how many rungs have been sold from the chair, besides the other "original" curios sold again and again, offers a fine job to some bright young statistician. And yet the "original" chair is still there.

The room in the front part of the house is still kept for visitors. An old plush sofa stands against the east wall, right under the picture which was being hung by James when he was shot down by his old comrade. In the center of the room is an old-fashioned centre-table on which rests a pink-globed kerosene lamp, and beside the lamp lay the two guns placed there by the bandit when he entered the house.

The house, an old frame building, set among the trees on the top of a bank, still looks just as one would expect a bandit king's home to look. A few hundred yards to the south high bluffs loom, while all around the house the unpaved, little-traveled streets seem to recall the old stage-coach routes. There are but one or two houses in plain view of the cottage, and these are far enough away to beguile the idea of seclusion.

Few Visitors Now
But there are few visitors to the old Jesse James landmark now. The house has not been painted since the bandit was killed. Boards, bare and rotting, window lights out and a crumbling foundation are the only outward sign of a landmark that once lured its thousands. The few who do occasionally seek out the old place are no longer curious, take little interest in the relics still offered for sale and generally leave with a disappointed "Humph!"

Two years ago there was an agitation for preserving the old house for its historical value, but when the question came before the Buchanan County Historical Society that august body believing the city had already had enough notoriety from Jesse James residence here flatly refused to take any action to save the ancient landmark on the grounds that the famous gunman was of no particular benefit to the reputation of the city or the State.

And thus is perishing one of Missouri's most famous landmarks. So, with Buffalo Bill and Cap Collier gone beyond the great divide, with the roundup being supervised now by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and with Pony Express stages given over to a foundry one might well say: "Sic semper gloriae."

MRS. ELVA MARSHALL
DIES ON THURSDAY
After an illness of several months, Mrs. Elva Marshall, wife of Charles Marshall, 23, of Bellbrook Avenue, died at the District Tubercular Hospital at Springfield Thursday evening at five o'clock. Death was the result of lung trouble from which Mrs. Marshall had suffered since last winter.

The body was brought to this city Friday morning, and taken to the late home on Bellbrook Avenue. Mrs. Marshall was born in Wilmington, where she resided until her marriage.

Besides her husband, she leaves two children, Harold Espey and Ralph Earl; her father Harry Carter of Wilmington, and four sisters, Donalds, of Xenia, Helen of Maryland, Sylvia, of Columbus, and Mrs. Anna Painter of this city.

Arrangements for the funeral of Mrs. Marshall have not been completed.

ROBS FILLING STATION
Cincinnati, August 25.—An oil station bandit using tactics similar to those of the daring highwayman, who terrorized filling station keepers and grocers in 1920 and 1921, made his appearance last night and robbed a Clifton filling station keeper of $25. He succeeded in making his escape.

GOLDEN HAIR IS AGAIN HANGING DOWN HER BACK

London, Aug. 25.—"Her golden hair was hanging down her back," by order of the British Government.

In other words the British maid under the age of sixteen is now threatened with compulsory flapperdom.

In Great Britain, it must be remembered that a flapper is a young person who wears her hair in a Marguerite plait. There is a measure now before the British House of Commons which is going to make it a punishable offense if any girl under the age of sixteen wanders abroad without her hair flowing down her back.

The babbed-haired damsels are in a quandry. The great legal question of the moment is the settlement of the point as to the category under which bobbed hair comes. Is it up or down? If the measure is passed the great question can only be settled by the learned and mighty Law Lords in the House of Lords.

The measure which is at present before Parliament is designed to make it a criminal offense for a man to misconduct himself with a girl under the age of sixteen whether it is with her consent or not. The defense that the man had reason to believe she was over sixteen will, if this bill becomes law, no longer hold good.

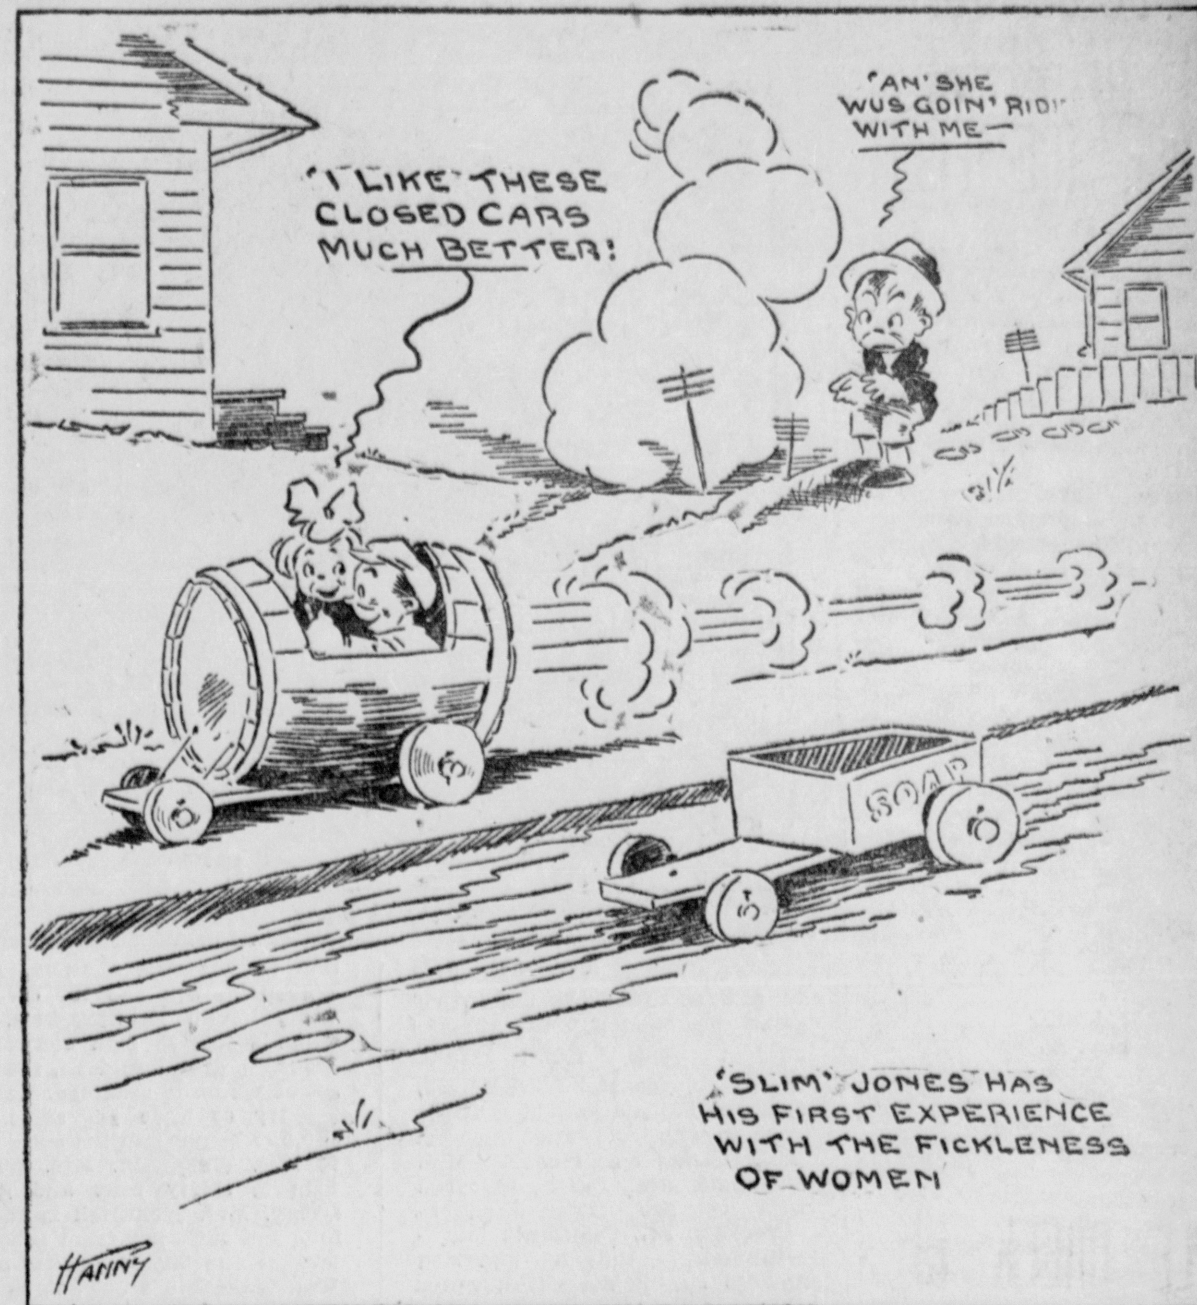

In order to protect British mankind from the blackmailing mix who ages herself with coiffeur juggling, Mr. F. A. Macquisten, M. P., a well-known Scottish lawyer, has given notice to an amendment to the effect:

Every female of the age of sixteen years or under shall wear her hair either loose or plaited and hanging down the back, and any such female who is sixteen or under that age who shall wear her hair up shall be liable to the penalties of this act, and upon a third conviction shall be confined to a Borstal Institution until she reaches the age of sixteen.

The original act is sponsored by Lady Astor and Mrs. Wintringham, the only two lady members of Parliament.

MRS. M. E. PAULLIN CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Martha E. Paullin, 51, wife of D. L. Paullin, formerly of Greene County, died at her home 1412 Wyoming Street, Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock Dayton time.

Death was due to a third stroke of paralysis, from which she had been a sufferer practically ever since the removal of the family from a farm near Jamestown to Dayton about two years ago.

Mrs. Paullin was the daughter of William and Adeline Lackey Mangan and was born and reared on the Mangan home farm near Jamestown. She would have been 52 years of age in October. Following her marriage to Mr. Paullin, she lived on a farm on the Charleston pike, two miles from Jamestown, until about two years ago, when the family moved to Dayton.

Mrs. Paullin is survived by her husband D. L. Paullin, retired farmer, and two sons, Lawrence of Dayton, and John of Bradford, Conn. She also leaves seven brothers and five sisters as follows: Mrs. Patrick Gallagher of this city, Mrs. Frank Kynne of Spring Valley, Mrs. Thomas Gardner of Dayton, Mrs. Lemma Williams of Hamilton and Police Lieutenant David Mangan, Clarence and Frank Mangan of this city, Timothy of near Jamestown, Hugh of the Jasper pike, John of the Jamestown pike and Thomas of Greenville.

Funeral services will be conducted at eight o'clock Saturday morning at the late residence in Dayton, and services will be held at St. Augustine's Catholic Church in Jamestown at nine o'clock. The services in Jamestown will be in charge of the Rev. Father William P. O'Connor former pastor of that church now of Sedamsville. Burial will be made in the Jamestown Cemetery.

SCHOOLBOYS WILL BE INSTRUCTED IN HONESTY POLICY

New York, Aug. 25.—U. S. schoolboys will be taught honesty by an "Honesty Bureau," headed by Dr. William Byron Forbush, author of "The Boy Problem" and a specialist in the psychology of youth.

The movement is fostered by the National Surety Company to give in instruction courses in honesty all through the American public school system.

The bureau has been organized as an antidote to the increase in crime. The eighth commandment, "Thou shalt not steal," is to be impressed on schoolboys in their formative years.

Hundreds of letters have been received by William B. Joyce, president of the National Surety Company, endorsing the movement. More than 500 bank presidents and 700 city superintendents of schools have promised their support.

It is endorsed by President Harding. The State Bankers' Association of Minnesota recently appointed an official committee to co-operate and other state bank associations are planning similar official action.

Par. of Instruction.

"I have letters from criminals serving their terms endorsing our action," said Dr. Forbush. "They point out that if they had been instructed in honesty they might not be in the position in which they now find themselves."

"We want to make the teaching of honesty an integral part of the school system. The modern boy needs more moral teaching than he gets. We shall work through the teachers at first; eventually we hope to operate through the home and the church as well."

Placed "On Honor."

The campaign headed by Dr. Forbush is to be concentrated. To quote him, it is not to be a "buck-shot campaign." A definite pro-

Never before in the history of our country have we had so much robbery, embezzlement and burglary," Dr. Forbush said. "Never have so many men and boys in the United States been so utterly indifferent to the property rights of other people."

Millions Stolen.

"The amount of property stolen annually in this country through embezzlement alone is now estimated at $100,000,000. The amount of property, merchandise as well as money taken in burglaries, holdups and other forms of robbery from the outside is estimated at $250,000,000 at least."

"In financial institutions alone, as distinguished from mercantile establishments embezzlements are now estimated at $10,000,000 a year, and bank robberies, burglaries and hold-ups are close to $1,000,000 a year."

"Last year the National Surety Company's payments because of burglaries were nearly $1,000,000, and its payments because of embezzlement amounted to nearly $1,500,000."

SEEK MYSTERIOUS STUDIO TO STOP COUNTERFEITING

Paris, Aug. 25.—A mysterious hidden studio which is, in reality a veritable factory for turning out counterfeit masterpieces, is object of search by prefecture detectives.

This factory is somewhere in the Latin quarter. There poor students and starving artists it is believed, are paid tempting wages for copying the works of great painters, the originals of which would command huge prices. These copies are then sold at auctions either deliberately in place of the original, which may be in private collection, or as a "newly discovered" work of the master.

Discovery of such "art treasures" on the market has led to the belief in the existence of this masterpiece factory, and to the combing of the Latin quarter by the police in search of it.

In particular, spurious works of modern painters of note have been detected, a variation of the old game of counterfeiting the older masters. All of the counterfeiters discovered so far have been signed with the painter's name, cleverly forged.

Thomas Knock, an American art connoisseur, was the first to put the police on the track of the swindlers. Knock recently paid 300,000 francs for a collection of 107 pictures.

Out of this group of pictures an expert picked forty-three counterfeits. Among them were works by Cozanne, Pissarro, Matisse, Renoir, Sisley, Sautille and Signac, representing for the most part a popular modern school of painting, the works of which bring high prices.

A celebrated art critic whose name was not permitted to be published was another victim of the factory.

Police plan, they say, to investigate every art dealer, and many of the studios on the left side of the Seine. Already, they say, they have discovered a group of bad imitation of work of Carriere. But the whereabouts of the suspected "factory" remains a mystery.

TWENTY TWO MULES BURNED TO DEATH WHEN LIGHTNING FIRES BARN OF HAGAR PAPER COMPANY AT CEDARVILLE THURSDAY

Twenty two mules were burned to death when flames that started from lightning destroyed a stable of the Hagar Straw Board and Paper Company at Cedarville Thursday night, entailing loss estimated at more than $6,000.

The fire was raging within the structure when it was discovered by Charles Howell, night engineer at eleven o'clock and the mules were sacrificed with other contents in the holocaust before the night force on hand at the mills, could lead them to safety.

Members of the night operating force utilized the company's fire apparatus in directing two streams of water on the fire and the Cedarville Fire Department also responded to the alarm. The heavy rainfall during the day had drenched other buildings on the plant lot, so that none of them caught fire from the flying sparks. Twenty loads of straw on wagons standing on the company property also were prevented from catching fire.

Two mules that escaped from the burning stable, were so badly burned that they had to be shot. Besides the mules, there were ten tons of hay stored in the left of the stable in which the fire started from a bolt of lightning during the severe electrical storm of Thursday night. The building was practically entirely consumed.

Company officials Friday morning estimated the loss of the mules at $5,000. They were unable to fix a damage estimate on the hay, but believe that the entire loss will be covered by insurance. The company carried $4,500 insurance on the mules and $700 on the building.

The stable burned is located about 200-feet from the main paper mill, which is now operating day and night. There are ten buildings connected with the plant at Cedarville.

A Stenographer's Romance

BY JANE PHELPS

DISSATISFIED HILDA Chapter 53

In Mr. George Fallon's office was a woman of about 40 who had for years acted as his private secretary. She was a good-looking, well poised woman, who had made herself invaluable to the firm. Her name was Jones, and from the first had taken an interest in Nellie, while the younger girl thought her a perfect pattern of all a business woman should be.

She had gone to the elder Mr. Fallon as a stenographer, then when the son had entered the business had gone to him because of her efficiency.

"I like the way you dress, Nellie," she once said.

"That's Cora's fault, not mine! I'd be a regular fluff-ruffler if it wasn't for her."

"Miss Baker is an unusual girl," Miss Jones had made Cora's acquaintance after she opened her adjoining office. "You are very fortunate to be with her, to have her for a friend."

"Don't I know that! I never would have amounted to a hill of beans if it hadn't been for her."

"I think you would, Nellie, but perhaps you would not have got on so quickly. I was a great deal older than you are before I had so good a salary—or was given so much responsibility. That, with this firm, means a good deal. It is a great thing for a young girl to have the respect of her employers, and you have won it. I am very glad for there has never been a girl here who I would have liked to see in my place—until you came."

"Your place—you aren't going to leave?" The thought of being private secretary to Mr. George had not entered Nellie's mind—ever now no such thought came to her.

"Not now—no. But I am getting along, and perhaps—some day."

"Mr. George never would leave you go, never!"

"We won't talk about it, but you keep on giving the best that is in you—and study—learn to understand the details of the business, the things entrusted to you. No one knows what the future has in store for them—I— they were interrupted and whatever Miss Jones intended to say went unsaid."

Free Demonstration Begins Tomorrow

When you're down town and want to use a telephone, come in and use ours.

If you make an appointment with a friend, just say, "I'll meet you in the cozy corner."

Come in and rest when you're tired, too. Look over the latest fashion magazines that are to be found on the table.

We want to be of service to everybody in this community, and we'll be glad to see you come in any time.

Beginning tomorrow, August 26th, and continuing all next week, including Saturday, September 2, we will give a daily demonstration in our store of USISCO Coffee.

A competent demonstrator will be present, and every patron will be invited to enjoy a cup of this new coffee, with our compliments. Cakes will also be served.

We think you will like USISCO Coffee. Frankly, we believe you will appreciate this new blend as much as you appreciate the new idea of Service that our store has brought to the selling of groceries.

If you can't come in tomorrow, drop in some day next week.

WINTER'S COLD IS HELD TO BLAME FOR ICE FREAK

Ithaca, N. Y., August 25.—Winter's cold and not summer's heat is responsible for the freak ice mine at Coudersport, a mine which may be a survival of Ice Age, declares Professor O. D. von Englein, of the geology department, Cornell University, in announcing the result of an extensive investigation of Nature's own refrigerator.

"A variety of explanations of the cause of the phenomenon have been suggested, no one of which is completely adequate, but of which all of the 'rational' ones are in agreement one point, which is that Winter cold and not Summer heat is responsible for the development of the ice," said Dr. von Englein. "The difficulties are encountered in attempting to explain how the Winter cold functions."

"As the ice mine is situated at an altitude of about 1,750 A. T. on the side of a long range of hills, which at the most rise only 300 to 400 feet higher at their summit levels, this precludes any possibility of the mine opening being fed by air from mountains, snow-and-ice mantled, the year round."

ONE EXPLANATION.
"Cold air is heavier than warm air. What seems to happen is this: During the Winter cold air over the hill tops sinks into the pores and crevices of rock formations and slowly expels the warm air which had penetrated there during the preceding Summer. Ordinarily this process of interchange, elsewhere, takes place locally, that is, over each little area of surface independently."

"But at Coudersport the joining up of rock crevices and passages seems to be so arranged that the air circulation of a wide region is focused on one spot, the area of the ice mine. At that point all the accumulation of warm air in Summer is slowly forced out from September on, melting the ice."

"During the Winter the heavier cold air completes the process by aiding its extra weight. In Summer the mass of rocks filled with cold air is analogous to a reservoir filled with water. The opening, low, on the slope of the hills, is a vent through which it can escape under pressure. "At that time the air temperatures both in the valleys and on the hilltops are about the same; accordingly the cold air, confined by the rocks, as the water in the tanks, emerges at the low outlet and pushes up, displacing the lighter warm air above the vent. Of course as the tank is emptied below, warm air enters the rock crevices above just as light air fills in the space made vacant when water is withdrawn from a tank. FREAK TEMPERATURE."

"To freeze water the temperature of cold air which emerges must be below 32 degrees F. This is possible, for the air temperatures of winter at Coudersport are commonly much below the freezing point. But to offset that is the fact that the earth almost universally maintains a uniform temperature the year round only a few feet below the surface of the ground."

"The air temperatures in the Mammoth Cave remain the same the year around. Accordingly, there must be at Coudersport some set of conditions which cuts off the interior earth heat, or renders this ineffective at that locality, if Winter cold, only, is held to explain the freak."

"Again, the water which is frozen by escaping cold air which water percolates through the rocks themselves as does the air. Why then does the water not either freeze before emergence, or indeed seal up the rock crevices so the cold air cannot get in? Possibly the water is only scantily supplied from a source quite close to the opening and does not have an opportunity to become cooled off enough to freeze until it emerges."

WIFE SUES OTHER WOMAN

Mrs. Edith Spreckels Wakefield.

Mrs. Rodney Kendrick, wife of a San Francisco newspaper artist, has filed suit for $25,000 against Mrs. Edith Huntington Spreckels Wakefield, charging alienation of affections in one of the queerest love snarls on record. Mrs. Wakefield first and divorced wife of the late John D. Spreckels, Jr., California multimillionaire, though married now to Frank Wakefield, whom she is suing for divorce, went to Mrs. Kendrick and offered her $100 a month for life if she would divorce Kendrick and permit him to become her third husband. All three admit the offer. Mrs. Kendrick, in addition to her suit against Mrs. Wakefield, will sue for divorce, while John D. Spreckels, Sr. will file suit to gain control of his three grandchildren, the oldest of whom is nineteen. He will also try to have set aside the $80,000 bequest in his son's will to Mrs. Wakefield. Mrs. Wakefield is thirty-nine and good looking. Mrs. Kendrick is twenty-four and suffering from tuberculosis. Kendrick is thirty-nine. Mrs. Wakefield must not be confused with Mrs. John D. Spreckels, Jr., second wife of the millionaire, who was Miss Sidl Wirt. Mrs. Wakefield is a grandniece of the late Collis P. Huntington, from whom she inherited millions.

BRITAIN NOW HOLDS A PROTECTORATE

Moscow.—Great Britain has practically established a protectorate over Persia, and Soviet Russia must aid the Persians in their struggle for liberty, according to Russian Ambassador Rothstein, who has just returned to Moscow from his post in Persia. "Entering Persia last year, I found British domination at its height, with a protectorate practically in operation," Rothstein said. "The British bank was publishing paper money and pumping silver and gold from the country. British financial advisers and army instructors were most active.

"Unoffending Russians were arrested in Persia on charges of suspicion of being Bolsheviks. There was no Parliament or political parties or contemplated elections."

"It is our obvious mission to help Persia out of this British domination. The masses in Persia have received our emissaries with an awakened spirit and have now elected a parliament."

during their period of development should have every advantage, in order that this may be a natural development.

If strain is present it should be relieved by EYEGLASSES.

Before beginning the new school year they should be properly examined and fitted with glasses if necessary.

This very often changes a dull, complaining child into a bright healthy one.

If the child already wears glasses, they may need a change, which ought to be done before the strain of the new school years starts.

BLIND BOY WINS SCHOLASTIC HONOR AT UNIVERSITY

Honolulu, Aug. 25.—Scholastic leadership at the University of Hawaii

for the college year which was just closed goes to a blind boy Henry Bindt, a third year student in the college of arts and sciences.

Besides attaining an average grade of 93 in all his subjects during the year, thus leading the entire student body in scholarship Bindt took an active part in college activities, being elected president of the student body for the ensuing year, president of the literary club, and president of his class. He was also one of the few students to be chosen as charter members of the newly organized student honor society.

Bindt does his studying by the aid of readers and a dictaphone, using also text books printed in the American Braille system of raised letter writing. He takes no lecture notes, depending entirely on his memory, which his instructors say is remarkably developed.

The honor system was adopted at the University of Hawaii during the last year largely as a result of Bindt's efforts in lecturing to students and faculty on the advantages of the system. The blind boy received his early schooling in the California School for the Blind at Berkeley, California.

Letters To The Editor

Editor The Gazette and Republican: I have just finished listening to "Uncle Josh's Town Topics" on our Edison phonograph and it has only made me think more than ever what I have been thinking all morning, that is this: Twenty years ago this summer, Mr. William S. Rowley, of the Adams Express Company, located at Xenia, Ohio, came home for his bride. We went to housekeeping in June, and I (the bride) didn't know a single person in town, but, believe me, it was not long until I did know some one, not only one, but a great many people, for never have I been in a place where the people were all as hospitable as in Xenia. Sometimes I think that no one has as many friends as I have and such wonderful ones as mine. Of course Mr. Rowley and I have each been back in Xenia for visits but never with our family complete. Last week we all came together, and while it was indeed sad to hear George Warner, alias Earl K. Herford, Charleston, W. Va. Warner is removed by death, I have never in all those twenty years enjoyed anything as much as my last week's visit to Xenia. I found the people just the same as ever, so kind and hospitable; and since Mr. Rowley and George's time, were both short, on that account I found it impossible to call upon all whom I should like to have, (besides finding some of the families taking their vacation.) However since coming and seeing the town and the various people, I feel like Uncle Josh that I must have the paper from "The Old Home Town." MRS. W. S. ROWLEY, Gambler, Ohio.

MRS. M. E. PAULLIN CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Martha E. Paullin, 51, wife of D. L. Paullin, formerly of Greene County, died at her home 1412 Wyoming Street, Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock Dayton time.

Death was due to a third stroke of paralysis, from which she had been a sufferer practically ever since the removal of the family from a farm near Jamestown to Dayton about two years ago.

Mrs. Paullin was the daughter of William and Adeline Lackey Mangan and was born and reared on the Mangan home farm near Jamestown. She would have been 52 years of age in October. Following her marriage to Mr. Paullin, she lived on a farm on the Charleston pike, two miles from Jamestown, until about two years ago, when the family moved to Dayton.

Mrs. Paullin is survived by her husband D. L. Paullin, retired farmer, and two sons, Lawrence of Dayton, and John of Bradford, Conn. She also leaves seven brothers and five sisters as follows: Mrs. Patrick Gallagher of Spring Valley, Mrs. Thomas Gardner of Dayton, Mrs. John McManus of Dayton and Mrs. Emma Williams of Hamilton and Frank Mangan of Dayton. Mrs. Paullin was a member of the St. Augustine's Catholic Church in Jamestown and was in charge of the church now of Sedamsville. Burial will be made in the Jamestown Cemetery.

SCHOOLBOYS WILL BE INSTRUCTED IN HONESTY POLICY

New York, Aug. 25.—U. S. schoolboys will be taught honesty by an "Honesty Bureau," headed by Dr. William Byron Forbush, author of "The Boy Problem," and a specialist in the psychology of youth.

The movement is fostered by the National Surety Company to give instruction courses in honesty all through the American public school system.

The bureau has been organized as an antidote to the increase in crime. The eighth commandment, "Thou shalt not steal," is to be impressed on schoolboys in their formative years.

Hundreds of letters have been received by William B. Joyce, president of the National Surety Company, endorsing the movement. More than 500 bank presidents and 700 city superintendents of schools have promised their support.

It is endorsed by President Harding. The State Bankers' Association of Minnesota recently appointed an official committee to co-operate and other state bank associations are planning similar official action.

"I have letters from criminals serving their terms endorsing our action," said Dr. Forbush. "They point out that if they had been instructed in honesty they might not be in the position in which they now find themselves."

"We want to make the teaching of honesty an integral part of the school system. The modern boy needs more moral teaching than he gets. We shall work through the teachers at first; eventually we hope to operate through the home and the church as well."

Placed "On Honor" by Dr. Forbush is to be concentrated. To quote him, it is not to be a "back-shot campaign." A definite program will be mapped out for every teacher. He will supply the ammunition. Mental exercises, stories and examples will enliven these discussions. Every boy will be literally 'on his honor.'

"Never before in the history of our country have we had so much robbery, embezzlement and burglary," Dr. Forbush said. "Never have so many men and boys in the United States been so utterly indifferent to the property rights of other people."

"The amount of property stolen annually in this country through embezzlement alone is now estimated at $100,000,000. The amount of property, merchandise as well as money taken in burglaries, holdups and other forms of robbery from the outside is estimated at $250,000,000 at least."

"In financial institutions alone, as distinguished from mercantile establishments embezzlements are now estimated at $10,000,000 a year, and bank robberies, burglaries and hold-ups are close to $1,000,000 a year."

"Last year the National Surety Company's payments because of burglaries were nearly $1,000,000, and its payments because of embezzlement amounted to nearly $1,500,000."

SEEK MYSTERIOUS STUDIO TO STOP COUNTERFEITING

Paris, Aug. 25.—A mysterious hidden studio which is, in reality a veritable factory for turning out counterfeit masterpieces, is object of search by prefecture detectives. This factory is somewhere in the Latin quarter. These poor students and starving artists it is believed, are paid tempting wages for copying the works of great painters, the originals of which would command huge prices. These copies are then sold at auctions either deliberately in place of the original, which may be in priv-

TWENTY TWO MULES BURNED TO DEATH WHEN LIGHTNING FIRES BARN OF HAGAR PAPER COMPANY AT CEDARVILLE THURSDAY

Twenty two mules were burned to death when flames that started from lightning destroyed a stable of the Hagar Straw Board and Paper Company at Cedarville Thursday night, entailing loss estimated at more than $6,000.

The fire was raging within the structure when it was discovered by Charles Howell, night engineer at eleven o'clock and the mules were sacrificed with other contents in the holocaust before the night force on hand at the mills, could lead them to safety.

Members of the night operating force utilized the company's fire apparatus in directing two streams of water on the fire and the Cedarville Fire Department also responded to the alarm. The heavy rainfall during the day had drenched other buildings on the plant lot, so that none of them caught fire from the flying sparks. Twenty loads of straw on wagons standing on the company property also were prevented from catching fire.

Two mules that escaped from the burning stable, were so badly burned that they had to be shot. Besides the mules, there were ten tons of hay stored in the loft of the stable in which the fire started from a bolt of lightning during the severe electrical storm of Thursday night. The building was practically entirely consumed.

Company officials Friday morning estimated the loss of the mules at $5,000. They were unable to fix a damage estimate on the hay, but believe that the entire loss will be covered by insurance. The company carried $4,500 insurance on the mules and $700 on the building.

The stable burned is located about 200-feet from the main paper mill, which is now operating 'day and night. There are ten buildings connected with the plant at Cedarville.

A Stenographer's Romance

BY JANE PHELPS

DISSATISFIED HILDA

Chapter 53

In Mr. George Fallon's office was a woman of about 40 who had for years acted as his private secretary. She was a good-looking, well-poised woman, who had made herself invaluable to the firm. Her name was Jones, and from the first had taken an interest in Nellie, while the younger girl thought her a perfect pattern of all a business woman should be.

She had gone to the elder Mr. Fallon as a stenographer, then when the son had entered the business had gone to him because of her efficiency.

"I like the way you dress, Nellie," she once said.

"That's Cora's fault, not mine! I'd be a regular fluffly-ruffles if it wasn't for her."

"Miss Baker is an unusual girl," Miss Jones had made Cora's acquaintance after she opened her adjoining office. "You are very fortunate to be with her, to have her for a friend."

"Don't I know that! I never would have amounted to a hill of beans if it hadn't been for her."

"I think you would, Nellie, but perhaps you would not have got on so quickly. I was a great deal older than you are before I had so good a salary—or was given so much responsibility. That, with this firm, means a good deal. It is a great thing for a young girl to have the respect of her employers, and you have won it. I am very glad for there has never been a girl here who I would have liked to see in my place—until you came."

"Your place—you aren't going to leave?" The thought of being private secretary to Mr. George had not entered Nellie's mind—even now no such thought came to her.

"Not now—no. But I am getting along, and perhaps—some day."

"Mr. George never would leave you go, never!"

"We won't talk about it, but you keep on giving the best that is in you—and study—learn to understand the details of the business, the things entrusted to you. No one knows what the future has in store for them—I— they were interrupted, and whatever Miss Jones intended to say went unsaid."
